Show Doesn't Go On

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Tucson merchant bought a new car.

That night he took his wife for her initial drive.

As they passed a drive-in theater, the wife saw a movie she'd like to see.

"Let's go," said hubby. Then he recalled he hadn't brought any money. His wife didn't have enough for two tickets.

"You drive," the husband said. "I'll hop in the trunk."

That's how they drove in. The wife went around to open the trunk, and found hubby had both trunk keys.

They left and went to the dealer. Closed. The wife went to a phone booth to check on locksmiths. No dime. No money.

They drove around town in their beautiful new car, with hubby becoming slightly frantic. Finally they went to a service station.

Nothing to it, said the attendant. He took a crowbar, pried and jimmied and heaved, and eventually the trunk opened.

The repair bill for the trunk was $316. And they didn't get to see the movie.

2 Objectives Met

U.S. Makes Its Point With Force Off Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officers say quick achievement of two major objectives enabled President Nixon to order withdrawal of more than two-thirds of the 29-ship armada deployed off Korea only last week to protect U.S. reconnaissance flights.

One objective, military experts said, was resumption of Navy EC121 intelligence flights in the area without tempting North Korea with another easy, undefended target like the plane shot down April 15.

The other objective was to demonstrate to North Korean leaders that even though the United States is fighting a war in Vietnam it still can muster considerable military power elsewhere to defend American interests.

Whether military precautions or power politics was the bigger factor in Nixon's decision to rush a big fleet to Korea is a matter of speculation.

"Made His Point"
"He made his point," one Navy admiral said. "Now we're gradually scaling down while still protecting our reconnaissance flights."

The officer viewed the large size of the original task force, which included three attack aircraft carriers, as an indication of the risk Nixon attached to resumption of the EC121 flight.

"North Korea is a belligerent," he commented. "We didn't know what to expect. So we didn't go up there with a little stick; we took a big stick."

After "proving his point," the President had to consider the cost of keeping a sizeable Navy force in the area over any extended period—not only in terms of dollars but also in terms of assignments the Navy had elsewhere.

One carrier, for example, had been pulled from Vietnam waters to join the task force, cutting Navy bombing capability in the war zone by one-third.

Looking for Trouble?

Nixon also may have considered the possibility that a prolonged presence of many U.S. warships near Korea would have been construed as provocative.

"By pulling out most of the ships, Nixon showed he wasn't out looking for trouble," a civilian analyst said.

The Navy still has a considerable presence off Korea—the carrier Enterprise with more than 90 planes and seven destroyers.

While two carriers have left, Pentagon sources report that an additional squadron of F4 Phantom fighters—about 24 planes—has been sent to South Korea to beef up American air strength there.

In the next few weeks, two other F4 Phantom squadrons will be replacing two Air National Guard F100 units winding up temporary tours in June.

That will improve the quality of available air resources in South Korea because the F100 is far less versatile than the F4.

The F4s, standard U.S. aircraft for armed escort missions, will accompany lumbering EC121 aircraft on their reconnaissance flights off the Korean coast.

Frenchmen To Vote in Four Weeks

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou, who served Charles de Gaulle for six years as premier, today announced his candidacy for the presidency his former chief abandoned Monday.

Pompidou, 57, said he was offering his country "the will to maintain a continuity and a necessary stability, and the hope of preparing the future."

Pompidou's announcement had been expected and he already is a favorite. He announced in January that he planned to run in the next presidential election, but it was assumed then it would not be held until De Gaulle's term expired in 1972.

"Pompidou for President" clubs are springing up around the country, and the former premier has won the endorsement of Social Affairs Minister Maurice Schumann, the UJP, a young Gaullist group, and an organization of left-wing Gaullists.

Alain Poher, whose presidency of the senate made him interim president of the nation, said in a brief radio-television speech he hoped the elections would take place with "scrupulous respect for the law."

"Must Go On"

Meeting parliamentary correspondents before the address, he said he was sorry Gen. De Gaulle had resigned, but, "gentlemen, France must go on."

Poher, who campaigned for the defeat of the reform bill on which De Gaulle staked his office, is being mentioned as a possible Centrist candidate to oppose Pompidou. However, the provisional president declined to discuss his plans.

The election must be held between May 18 and June 2, within 20 to 35 days after De Gaulle's resignation. Most speculation settled on June 1 as the date for the first round. Poher said a date probably would be set next week.

If no candidate receives a majority on the first vote, a runoff is held between the two first-round leaders.

Major parties and factions represented in the National Assembly were meeting to prepare for the election. The Socialist Party's leadership was to meet this afternoon, and the Communists met to decide what to do about Socialist disinterest in forming a leftist coalition.

Veteran Socialist leader Guy Mollet indicated he was more interested in a union with Centrist forces and said he would support Poher if the interim president gets into a runoff with Pompidou.

"United Europe"

Valery Giscard d'Estaing, a leader of the Independence Republicans who have been part of the Gaullist majority, said his ideal candidate would be "an experienced man, not involved in the political clashes between the majority and opposition in recent years, with an eye toward a united Europe, who unites instead of divides and who

S.C. College Forced to Close As Negroes Seize Buildings

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negro students, some armed with guns and knives, who have held the administration building at predominantly Negro Voorhees College in Denmark, S.C., since Monday, invaded another campus building today and caused college officials to shut down the school.

At Belmont, N.C., a small group of Negro students occupied the administration building at Belmont Abbey College, a Roman Catholic school with only about 15 Negroes enrolled. A police official said it was not known if they were armed and police were asked to stand by.

Between 150 and 200 young Negroes continued a peaceful sit-in at a Michigan State University cafeteria.

About 25 Negro students ended a sit-in at the administrative offices of St. Louis University, when officials met most of their demands.

College Closed

City College of New York was closed indefinitely and sit-ins continued at two other branches of the City University.

At Harvard University students participating in a referendum voted 3,222 to 945 not to resume a strike of classes.

The New York State assembly, meeting in Albany, passed and sent to the senate a bill to ban guns from college campuses. The bill, backed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, would allow seven-year jail terms for armed students convicted of unlawfully occupying buildings on New York State college campuses.

The legislation was provoked by an armed sit-in by Negro students at Cornell University last week. The 14,000-student Ithaca campus has now returned to a relatively normal classroom routine.

At Voorhees, located in Denmark about 20 miles southwest of Orangeburg, college president Dr. John F. Potts said there would be no precipitous action "because we do not want anyone to get hurt."

The militant students seized the building about noon Monday and hung out a sign declaring it "Malcolm X University." They refused to send out a delegation to discuss their grievances with school officials.

One student who refused to identify himself said the protesters were armed "for the purpose of self defense." Their demands including a minimum $1.60 an hour wage for all non-academic workers, establishment of a black studies program and amnesty for the protesters.

The school has about 725 students and is supported by the Episcopal Church.

In East Lansing, Mich., the MSU sit-ins were protesting the firing of a black university employee and demanding that more blacks be hired in campus dormitories.

Police Harassment

They began the sit-in Monday afternoon and threatened to remain until Thursday. They called for a public hearing to discuss their complaints.

The St. Louis sit-in ended when school officials agreed to investigate complaints of alleged harassment by campus police, to grant amnesty to the protesters, to hire Negro supervisory maintenance personnel, increase black oriented courses and create an office of black student affairs.

In New York, Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, president of City College, said the 20,000-student school would remain closed for the duration of negotiations with black and Puerto Rican students who seized part of the campus last week.

Danger Seen For Sirhan in San Quentin

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

— A California prison official says there have been rumors that an attempt would be made on the life of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, assassin of Robert F. Kennedy, if he goes to San Quentin prison.

"They were nothing you could put your fingers on or could validate," Lawrence Wilson, state deputy corrections director, said Monday. "Just the institutional rumors that there could be some reprisals taken."

Meanwhile, a bill to allow the California Corrections Department to send Sirhan to the medical facility at Vacaville died in the state legislature's criminal procedure committee Monday for lack of votes.

Hearing Scheduled

Sirhan was convicted of first degree murder and condemned to death by the jury Wednesday. May 21 has been set as a hearing date for possible motions and formal sentencing by the judge.

Among those attending the committee hearing Monday was Lynn Compton, chief deputy district attorney for Los Angeles County and one of Sirhan's prosecutors.

"It's inescapable that he is different from most prisoners," Compton said following the hearing. "I think there is a greater threat on his personal safety than on the average prisoner you get. This is a unique and special kind of case."

Wilson said Sirhan would be held in a "no man's land" at San Quentin with empty cells on both sides. His area will be separated by a screen from the rest of the sixth floor death row.

Officials said Sirhan still could be housed at Vacaville, built in 1955, if doctors should find he needs special medical or psychiatric care not available at San Quentin, a state prison since the 1850s. The gas chamber is at San Quentin.

Nixon Administration Is 100 Days Old

Many Key Democrats Hold Onto Their Jobs

BY GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon Administration marks its 100th day in power today with scores of holdovers from Democratic years still occupying key jobs in the vast federal establishment.

A government-wide Associated Press survey disclosed that while new Republican faces dominate the upper levels in some departments, a clean sweep of Democratic appointees has not materialized.

Some examples:

—At the Pentagon, fewer than half of the 29 first-line civilian jobs have been filled with fresh GOP talent.

—Seven of the eight top jobs at the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal antipoverity agency, are still filled by holdovers from the Johnson administration.

—Of the 109 slots subject to political appointment in the Agriculture Department's Washington headquarters, the Nixon administration has filled 46—less than half. There are 38 holdovers and 25 vacancies.

Administration spokesmen say Nixon and his cabinet members have concentrated first on selecting appointees for upper echelon posts before moving on to middle-rung jobs. This is reflected in one estimate that only half of the 1,750 "Schedule C" jobs—confidential or political posts usually in the $15,000 to $30,000 salary range—have been filled by the new administration.

Nixon himself says he's more interested in long-term accomplishments than in what's done in the first 100 days of his administration. "I don't count either the days or the hours," he told reporters Sunday. "I never thought in those terms. I plan for the long term."

The Justice Department is an example of the emphasis on filling the highest jobs first. There, only one Johnson holdover is among the eight assistant attorneys general. But the next step down—deputy assistant attorneys general and division heads—practically everyone stayed on.

At the Defense Department, the Republican regime has a strong flavor of the preceding Democratic administrations of Robert S. McNamara and Clark M. Clifford.

One reason is that Nixon and his defense secretary, Melvin R. Laird, have given regular appointments to seven officials continuing on with policy and administrative assignments they held under Democrats.

These include Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering; Comptroller Robert S. Moot, and Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

In addition Dr. Robert O. Seamans Jr., associate space agency administrator in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, has been named Air Force secretary; John L. McLucas, former deputy research director, has returned as Air Force undersecretary; and Barry J. Shillito, former assistant Navy secretary, has been promoted to assistant defense secretary.

More Deliberately

Pentagon officials acknowledge that Laird has moved more deliberately than either President Dwight D. Eisenhower or President John F. Kennedy did in the department when they brought a parts switchover to the White House. These authorities say the Vietnam war requires some "continuity and carryover competence" in key jobs.

At the State Department and related agencies, such as the Peace corps and U.S. Information Agency, Nixon choices fill most top posts. A small and steadily dwindling number of Democratic holdovers can be found in lower echelon jobs. Among these are Barbara M. Watson, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, and Thomas L. Hughes, director of the Bureau of Intelligence and Research.

The same pattern holds true at the Interior Department. There all of the upper positions are filled by new Republican faces, but about half of the bureau director posts remain vacant.

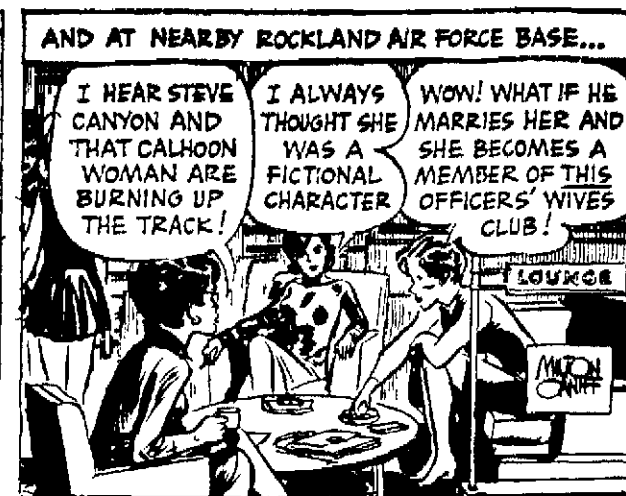

Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel said recently he was interviewing prospects for these jobs. "We are looking for the best men available," he said. "It doesn't necessarily mean they have to be Republicans, but if they are Republicans it helps."

Some Republicans in Congress and elsewhere have grumbled about the large number of Democrats retained by the Nixon administration. Administration officials respond by noting that Nixon must work with a Democratic-controlled Congress.

THE PHANTOM

Army's 'Foul Balls' Get Chance to Clear Record

FT RILEY, Kan. (AP)—The Army is giving its worst soldiers a second chance.

Every week about 200 of them, fresh out of the stockade, are assigned to a new correctional training program at this old Army post.

They get 10 weeks of intensive counseling and training in the first—and so far only—comprehensive effort to save the Army's foul balls.

The program opened last July after surveys showed very few—perhaps only 10 per cent—of the men who were court-marshaled ever managed to earn an honorable discharge. The aim is to qualify the problem soldiers for other Army assignments.

About 2,000 men are in training at a time. They were all convicted by court-martial, most for being away without leave, but some for more serious offenses such as manslaughter.

Broken Homes

Typically the trainee—the word "prisoner" is carefully avoided—is a high school dropout with an IQ of about 85 who comes from a broken home.

Most haven't finished basic though a few fought in Vietnam. "They're a pretty sullen sloppy bunch when we first get them," said a member of the training staff.

Money and women were the most common reasons for their getting into trouble in the first place. Experts—chaplains, social workers, attorneys—straighten out their chaotic pay records, arrange for marriages or divorces, generally try to bring some order to their personal affairs.

It is not easy one official admitted. "We live and work with these guys day and night."

In some ways the course is tougher on instructors than trainees who are unusually experienced in violating regulations.

"We figure our instructors can maintain that keen edge and enthusiasm for maybe a year, and then we'll have to transfer them out," said one of the officers.

Classes on Motivation

During the course, military training is interspersed with special motivational classes on subjects like family relations, government, narcotics addiction and military traditions. Infantry instructors, most of them veterans of Vietnam, handle the basic training.

So far, more than 6,000 trainees have gone through the program, and about 80 per cent have graduated to other assignments.

The army figures it costs about $5,000 a year to train and keep someone with a military occupational specialty. The cost of the rehabilitation program is computed at about $500 a man.

Col. George F. Proudfoot, commander of the program, concedes there are failures as well as successes. Some trainees absolutely refuse to respond and have to be returned to confinement or discharged.

"But, the colonel said, "it's better being in the salvage business than in the junk business."

Hang Cardboard Letter Rack On the Wall for Family Mail

BY CAPPY DICK

The wall rack shown in figure 1 is a letter holder any boy or girl can manufacture easily as a gift for the family. It's made of cardboard and a pair of shoe laces. The picture pasted on its front is clipped from a magazine. When the rack is hung on the wall all the mail that comes to your house can be placed in the holder where it can be seen by all members of the family when they arrive home at the end of the day.

Use a heavy piece of cardboard one foot wide and 18 inches long. Crease it across its width about two inches from the center. To make the crease smooth use a sharp-edged ruler as in Figure 1 where the dotted folded upward against the ruler.

With a paper punch punch holes at regular distances along each side as in figure 2. Lace the sides together with a pair of shoe strings doing it loosely so when the holder is hung flat on the wall the front side will lean forward as in figure 2.

Hunt through a magazine for a colored picture that will make an attractive decoration. Clip it out and paste it neatly on the front cardboard. If you can find another suitable picture paste it inside the back section. The final step is to make a small hole at the exact center of the top edge of the back and hang the holder on a hook or nail.

on the physical facility and the present and projected population of the Jackson School. He suggested that space problems could be alleviated by busing of students within the city.

Mr. William Pickett, Director of Physical Education, presented a request for a new style of boys' gym suits of two colors and with reversible shirts. A motion was made by Mr. Stevens and seconded by Mr. Schneider that this physical education uniform be adopted. Motion carried.

Mr. Spears reported on the planned Open House at McKinley School. He related that because of the striking union, the grading landscapist, and blacktopping have not been completed. Envisioned problems caused by these lack led the Board to agree with the Superintendent's recommendation for a postponement of the Open House until fall.

In response to his inquiry, Mr. Roberts was promised a report on physical education policies within the next thirty days.

After hearing an outline of procedure, Mr. Summich moved, seconded by Mr. Roberts, that a study be made of the Appleton Association of Insurance Agents. They would then make recommendations to the school system as to the most advantageous type of policy coverage. A motion to study the possibility of having a group evaluate the schools' policies was made by Mr. Stevens, seconded by Mr. Schneider. Following discussion and with permission of the second, Mr. Stevens withdrew his motion. There was unanimity for Mr. Summich to make a motion for adjournment. Second by Mr. Roberts. Carried.

They Dined Around the Maypole

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Although the "weather outside was frightful" with the sun hidden in a cloudy sky and the temperature registering in the forties, the atmosphere in the east lounge at Butte des Morts Golf Club Sunday was spring. The occasion was the fifth annual St. Elizabeth Hospital brunch.

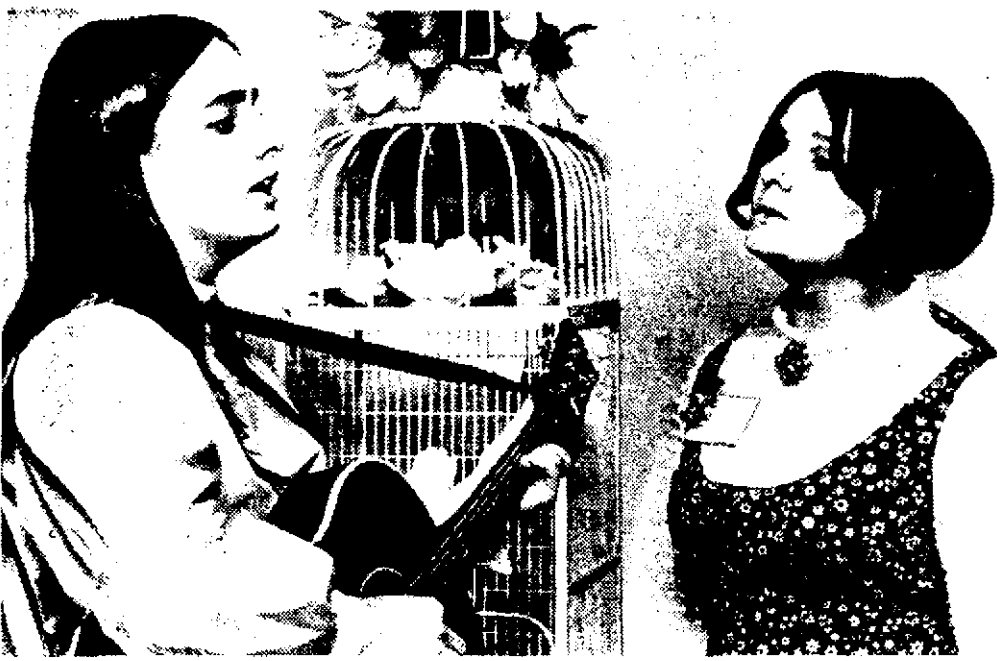

To heighten the spring feeling, flowers were placed about the room, parrots swung from perches and tiny china dolls representing many lands danced around maypole centerpieces.

Behind the attractive buffet table laden with such taste-tempting foods as bacon, ham and sausages; crepe suzettes; chicken livers, and tiny sweet rolls, were ribbon streamers suggesting the maypole theme.

Strolling troubadours sang to their own guitar accompaniment as those gathered enjoyed brunch in front of windows decrying the inclement weather outside.

Mayor George Buckley chose scrambled eggs as he passed through the buffet line at Butte des Morts Golf Club Sunday. More than 500 people from the Fox River Valley area attended the annual spring brunch.

Strolling troubadours Loretta Brandt and Pamela Van Roy, above, entertained guests as they dined in the east lounge. At right, Thomas Driscoll, Mrs. Earl Christensen, Mrs. Driscoll and Mr. Christensen chat over a final cup of coffee.

Mrs. Joseph Hulbert, Terry and Joseph Hulbert and Charles Kolb, at right, joined other Fox Valley residents Sunday at Butte des Morts Golf Club for the fifth annual charity brunch sponsored by St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary.

Trying to Influence the future by making wishes at a summery fountain are Leah Gaffney, Gary Valentyne, Joyce Gaffney and Jeff Hermus. At right, court members, Wayne Swokowski and Mary Mader, seniors, and Joan Vanden Heuvel and Jim Opsteen, juniors, take a turn on the dance floor.

KIMBERLY — Summer's flowers and a bubbling fountain just right for making wishes were combined to make "A Summer Place," the theme of Kimberly High School's junior prom Friday evening at the school.

Reigning over the idyllic scene were Kathleen Van Hammond and Michael Weiland. Their royal court was composed of Mary Mader and Wayne Swokowski, seniors; Joan Vanden Heuvel and James Opsteen, juniors, and Barbara Schmidt and Thomas Aerts, sophomores.

After the dance, prom-goers adjourned to a post-prom party at Oakwood Hills Supper Club, Combined Locks.

The Crowning moment came for prom queen, Kathy Van Hammond, as Michael Weiland, prom king, carefully placed the sparkling tiara on her head Friday evening.

Unorthodox Bids Don't Get Results

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South didn't have the correct values for his opening bid in today's hand, played in the recent national team championship in Cleveland. South needed an unusually good result to pull the match out of the fire, but the actual result was just what you should expect when a player steps out of line against good opposition.

Dick Walsh, of the young Los Angeles team that won the championship, led the deuce of hearts from the West hand. South won with the queen of hearts and led the three of diamonds, hoping to conceal his strength in the red suits and thus somehow stall off a shift to clubs.

Walsh played the nine of diamonds without a flicker, and declarer tried a finesse with dummy's ten. It was an unfortunate guess on South's part, but he couldn't have gone wrong if Walsh had stepped up with the king of diamonds.

John Swanson won with the jack of diamonds and returned the deuce of clubs. West won with the queen of clubs and could comfortably return the three of clubs because an expert East would not lead a deuce (or any other very low card) in this position unless he could support a return lead.

East won the fourth club trick and shifted back to hearts. South stepped up with the ace of hearts and led a spade to dummy's queen to resume the diamonds, still convinced that East had the king of diamonds.

West won a trick with his ungarded king of diamonds and cashed the king of hearts. Since declarer had discarded a heart on the clubs, West's nine of hearts was now good and the defenders collected a penalty of 400 points of winning two hearts, two diamonds and four clubs.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S-A 8 7 3, H-A Q 6 4, D-A 8 3, C-9 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. If partner can respond in spades, you will gladly raise; otherwise you will abandon the suit and rebid in notrump. Some experts would open this awkward hand with one diamond, prepared to raise if partner can respond in either major suit.

Israel and Egypt Play Games With Prisoners

Pilot Son of Egyptian Official May Be Changed for 800 Stateless Jews

Evans Novak

CAIRO — A chilling under cover drama involving the capture of an exceptionally prominent Egyptian pilot is now being secretly played out by intermediaries acting for Egypt and Israel.

Israel decided to keep him. Wanting him back badly, the United Arab Republic (Egypt) began delicate negotiations through third parties with the Israeli government. It was clear from the start that if the Israeli government could be moved into a position where it would only be through the United States, which has more influence with Israel than all other countries put together.

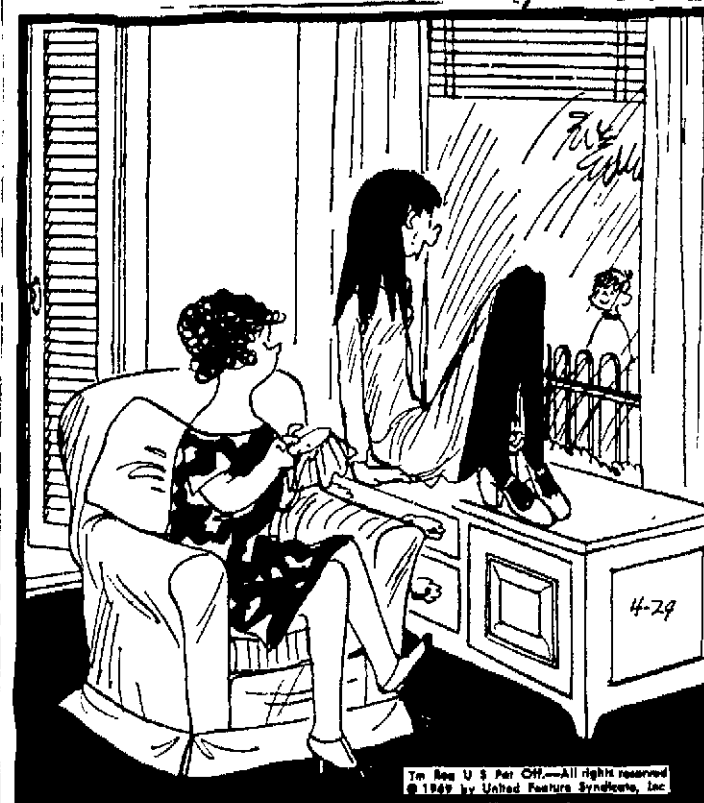

Thus, through diplomatic labyrinths the case finally arrived in Washington where U.S. officials approached the Israeli embassy. Their message if the pilot is not released, the Egyptian government could make no guarantees about continuing its work to free the last 200-odd stateless Jews (by now released from the high security prison at Tora and awaiting final departure at Bawaag, a barracks in the Nile delta).

embassy in Washington sought about the treatment of Jews in instructions from the government in Jerusalem. The word notorious spy-trial hangings of came back: "We have this pilot Jews in Iraq.) and we think he will talk." In Israel, in fact, has made the plight of the Jews in Arab states its basic argument, refusing United Nations appeals for international inspection of the West Bank and other Israeli-occupied Arab lands. If the UN is allowed to inspect the condition of Arabs in the West Bank, then the Arab states must allow international legal residence papers to nearly 50 of the stateless Jews in Arab countries. With Egypt now claiming to have cleared the way for the exit of virtually all Jews who want to leave, the Israeli argument might lose some of its force. Whether or not this has affected the Israeli decision, the will all stay in Egypt, at least until Israel releases the pilot. Some diplomats here suspect the Israeli motive in retaining the pilot goes beyond the important one of extracting intelligence. They say that Israel has a hard swap and the Israeli been complaining for years.

OSU Alumni Day Set for May 17

Reunion of the Oshkosh State University classes of 1929 and 1934-35, the annual student art fair and an all-alumni dinner with the Green Bay Packers coach Zeke Bratkowski as guest speaker will be three features of the fourth annual OSC Alumni Day May 17.

Crossing Guard Sought At Foster Elementary

Appleton police are seeking a school crossing guard for duty at Foster and Oneida streets. The crossing guard would work four hours a day during the school year. Police said they prefer hiring someone who lives near Foster Elementary School.

Democrat Unit Votes Support for Grape Boycott

In a move to support the California grape pickers' bid for recognition of the United Farm Workers Organization by growers, Outagamie County Democrats have endorsed a consumer boycott of all California table grapes. The growers have refused to recognize the AFL-CIO affiliate under the leadership of Cesar Chavez. All agricultural workers are specifically excluded from national labor acts. Democrats will elect county delegates and alternates to district and state conventions during a special meeting at 8 p.m. May 7 at the home of James Dana. The party's next regular meeting at 8 p.m. May 15 at Outagamie Bank and the women's group will meet at 8 p.m. May 27 at the home of Sylvia Stack. The job pays $1.80 per hour. Anyone interested should contact the police department traffic bureau.

Working mainly with the Spanish government, whose embassy here represents the United States, the Egyptian government gradually released all the foreign Jews trapped here when the 1967 war broke out, and some Egyptian Jews who asked to get out. It was well along toward final release of some 200 stateless Jews in late February and early March when the Egyptian fighter pilot was captured in the Sinai desert after parachuting from his stricken MIG-21.

Five featured conference speakers will highlight the program. On Friday Joseph Fagan, as chairman of the state Department of Industry Labor and Human Relations Commission will discuss the "Unreached Potential in Wisconsin." King Wientge, professor in counselor education at the University of Missouri, St. Louis, will speak on "Identifying Programs for the Unreached." John Erlenborn, congressman from Illinois and member of the House Education and Labor Committee, will present "The Federal Government and the Unreached."

On Saturday Robert D. Boyd, editor of several books on adult education and author of articles in educational journals, will speak on "Motivating the Unreached," and Bradley S. Greenberg, associate professor of communications at Michigan State University and author of several articles on communication, will discuss "Communicating with the Unreached." # City Moves Quickly for Annexation After Court Voids Previous Action

Officials Stunned by Decision Barring Development of Area

Appleton city officials moved swiftly today to make another attempt at annexing 135 acres of highly desirable property in the Town of Grand Chute.

Their action came on the heels of Monday's Circuit Court decision which voided the city's previous annexation.

"We're not going to let this thing die by any means," Mayor George Buckley declared today. "The city attorney has my full support to go after it again."

The decision, which stunned Appleton officials and prompted them to lash out at the state's existing annexation laws, had far-reaching impact.

City Barred

—It prevented the city from bringing in a 95-acre tract (Langedyke farm) which it purchased in the early 1960s for school, park and possible industrial purposes.

—Also jeopardized the $500,000 bowling alley and recreation center development planned by Marcus Enterprises because without annexation the site cannot get the necessary municipal services.

—Put the proposed $450,000 Labor Temple building project in the same situation.

—Cost the city about $50,000 in existing assessed valuation or slightly less than $4,000 in real estate taxes.

The Langedyke farm property is west of Ballard Road and immediately north of Northland Avenue.

Two other tracts of land, originally purchased by the city for commercial and industrial development and then sold at cost to the labor group and Milwaukee developer Ben Marcus, front on Northland Avenue and are east of Ballard Road.

In voiding the 1967 annexation, the court said the city purposely drew boundary lines to exclude four residences in the town, thereby creating an island.

Direct Annexation

City Atty. David Geenen said the city drew the lines the way it did to "protect the Northland Avenue right-of-way."

Geenen declared the city now had other alternatives which would enable it to take a different approach at annexing all of the property in question and expedite bringing it into the city.

"Rather than appeal the decision, which will take considerable time, I intend to draw up an ordinance for adoption by the city council for direct annexation under the statutes," Geenen explained.

He said the ordinance would include a revised boundary — leaving the Northland Avenue right-of-way out of the proposed annexation.

Geenen thought it might produce jurisdictional problems in the future between the city and town, but felt at the same time the city could not afford to take any different route.

The ordinance will be presented to the city council.

Storm Sewer Work Closes E. Newberry

Traffic Rerouted Through Area for Rest of the Week

A portion of E. Newberry Street — one of the main traffic carriers on Appleton's southeast side — will be closed through Friday due to storm sewer construction.

The barricades went up today as P & B Excavating Co. of Appleton began sewer work in earnest between Buchanan Street and Lynn Drive.

The public works project, which will have a major effect on traffic the rest of the week, immediately drew telephone complaints to city hall.

In addition to regular traffic generated in the immediate area, residents of Colony Oaks subdivision and those in Little Chute and Kimberly who normally use Newberry Street to come to Appleton, will be inconvenienced by detours.

Save Trouble

"If we can keep traffic out of the construction area it will save everybody a lot of time and trouble," City Engineer Tom Harp said this morning.

Harp said the storm sewer project was a prelude to additional work to be done on Newberry Street in coming months.

This summer the same stretch of Newberry is scheduled for concrete paving from Lynn Drive to Schaefer Street.

In the fall, underground utilities will be installed in Newberry Street between Lynn Drive and Marcella Street, Harp said, with concrete paving following in 1970.

Harp said there would be no paving work done on Newberry Street until the East College Avenue extension has been paved this summer.

Two Detour Routes

"Then we can pave Newberry and use the new College Avenue for routing traffic," Harp explained.

For the remainder of the week, there are two detour routes in conjunction with the storm sewer project.

Motorists taking Newberry Street to Appleton will be routed along John, Railroad and Marcella streets. And those living in Colony Oaks will have to go back to Marcella Street and get on the detour route.

Harp suggested motorists from Kimberly and Little Chute should come to Appleton via County KK or State 96 until the sewer job is completed.

Site Election Concerns Communities

Group Formed to Promote I-System Route

PLYMOUTH — Fourteen communities agreed Monday night to form a corporation for the purpose of promoting the selection of the exact route of the proposed Milwaukee-Green Bay Interstate Highway.

The non-profit corporation, Communities for Milwaukee-Green Bay Interstate Highway, Inc., elected officers.

Heading the group is President Jack Anton, president of the Plymouth Industrial Development Corp. Other officers are Harry Thompson, mayor of Chilton, vice president; Ronald Damp, Plymouth city attorney, secretary; and Ted Block, Random Lake businessman, treasurer.

Influence Decision

"The group will attempt to influence the decision as to the route of the Interstate which will be most beneficial to all member communities," Louis Micheln, Appleton, said

Junior High Level

Catholics Ask Shared Time

Priests of five Catholic parishes in Appleton have requested permission to send seventh and eighth graders to the public junior high schools for certain courses, it was revealed Monday night.

Supt. of Schools William Spears said he received the letter requesting a meeting with Spears and other administrators "to explore with you the possibility of providing a shared time program."

Spears wrote the clergymen indicating that public school administrators "will be happy" to discuss the possibilities and named Orlyn Zieman, secondary coordinator, to set up a meeting.

More Complicated

However, Spears warned: "At the moment, this will be more complicated than at the senior high school level." He noted that the junior highs will be crowded until the two additions are finished next year.

Charles Buchanan, board president, told the board that the problem is a major one. He urged board members to "think about it," and noted there are two choices — continue to allow parochial students in when there is room or allow all who desire to come in and make adjustments in space and teaching staff.

The five priests said they are interested in providing for a fully rounded education for the youngsters.

Curriculum Offerings

"Many students who transfer to public school each year do so to take advantage of curriculum offerings which we can't offer," they wrote. These offerings are industrial arts, foreign language and home economics.

They offered to provide the transportation to and from the junior highs.

The priests noted that a shared time program had been used in the system sometime ago.

"It is not too long ago that a program of this type was a part of the educational program of Appleton junior citizenry," they wrote.

Implementing this now would be most difficult, but the results could be rewarding, they added.

Two Conditions

Buchanan, who noted the parochial school children would not be charged tuition, told the board there are two economic conditions to consider — allowing all parochial students in could mean added cost for facilities and additional teachers, but not allowing them could mean certain parochial seventh and eighth grades would be closed, adding to the parochial to public school transfers.

Ronald Roberts, board member, suggested that shop facilities are idle after regular school hours and possibly an arrangement could be made then.

Zieman was to meet with the four public junior high principals this afternoon to prepare for a meeting. He said that he hopes to meet with representatives of the parochial schools and boards "within two weeks."

The board of education agreed Monday night that any board members and other administrators interested in attending should be notified of the meeting time.

The priests signing the letter were the Right Rev. Msgr. Adam Grill, St. Mary parish; the Rev. Thomas J. Mortell, St. Pius X parish; the Rev. Roy Crain, St. Bernadette parish; the Rev. George Henseler, OFM Cap., St. Joseph parish, and the Rev. Patrick McMahon, St. Thomas More parish.

The Rev. Wilbert Staudenmaier, of Sacred Heart parish, was listed but didn't sign the letter.

'Greater Than Mayor, Governor'

Superintendents' Pay Should Reflect Their Impact on Youth

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — A University of Wisconsin professor said Monday afternoon that a public school superintendent can have an enormous impact on people and deserves to be paid accordingly.

Dr. LeRoy Peterson, of the UW School of Education, noted especially the number of young lives that can be affected by a superintendent. He spoke during a sectional meeting at the second annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators.

He dismissed the idea that a superintendent should not be paid more than a mayor or the governor. "The question is, are we paying the superintendent enough, not is he making more than the governor," he said.

Long Range Effect

He hinted the superintendent can have a more far-reaching and longer range effect on people, particularly young people, than the governor or a mayor.

(In his frequent criticism of Appleton Board of Education spending, Mayor George L. Buckley has questioned the superintendent receiving more than the mayor and nearly as much as the governor.)

The question of superintendent's pay was discussed Monday afternoon following a survey report by Paul Smith, assistant superintendent of schools at Oshkosh who is studying under Peterson. Smith surveyed Wisconsin experts in educational administration, industrial leaders, board of education presidents and school district administrators.

Smith, who noted he expects the association to take a position on superintendent's pay sometime in the near future, cited several points in his report which were thought by the respondents to be important in determining an administrator's salary.

Determining Factors

—Size of the school system is a major determinant. Others are the superintendent's educational and experience level, the minimum and maximum salaries of teachers and the salary level of principals.

—Subjective factors topping the list are the superintendent's ability to relate to others and to administer, leadership, personal qualities, complexity of duties and responsibilities.

—Board of education presidents and the experts see ability to relate to others and administer as the major factors. Relating to others is seeing the needs and desires and meeting them, Smith said.

—Industrial leaders pointed

The Appleton Board of Education moved Monday night to give greater opportunity for the public to participate in budget deliberations.

Following up an earlier decision to seek public expression on budget direction, the board indicated Monday night it wished to proceed on a plan submitted by Mrs. Helen Heil, board member.

The plan includes two "talk sessions" during which public expression will be heard.

Charles Buchanan, board president, named board member John Stevens to head a committee to set up the sessions. Mrs. Heil and Ronald Roberts also were named to the Committee and Mrs. Mabel McClanahan, who was elected to the board in April, was named as a citizen member until she takes office later this year. The superintendent is an ex officio member.

First Session

Stevens immediately set the evening of June 2 for the first session.

Mrs. Heil said the "talk sessions" before the superintendent brings in budget recommendations and again as a public hearing before the budget is submitted to the fiscal control board should be "listening" sessions for the administration and board members.

She also called for meetings to allow the board members to explain the budget to city leaders and the public and a speakers bureau to make the explanations.

"This organized plan is intended to result in wider and better informed community leadership and general public in the matter of the school budget," she reported.

She said this should lessen the defensive position and "prejudicial discreditation" that is usually accorded to speakers supporting the school budget request.

Examination Ordered In Death of Woman

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said he has ordered a post-mortem examination to determine the cause of death of Angela Smith, 55, 124 E. Orange St.

Miss Smith died suddenly at her home about 3:45 a.m. today. Kemps said the woman had been in apparent good health. She worked at Gilbert Paper Co.

The Wichmann Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Minard said the offering has been recommended by the finance and executive committees of the board of directors to meet financing requirements for worldwide capital expenditure programs. The board was expected to act on the recommendation later today.

The plan calls for issuance to stockholders rights to purchase one additional share of common stock for approximately each 10 shares held. The exact number of shares and the price would be determined just before the offering date and would depend upon stock market conditions at the time.

Minard said the offering, planned for mid-June, would not be made until a registration statement has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and has become effective.

Minard told stockholders that three factors — leadership in Several board members disagreed.

Buchanan questioned whether taxpayer's money should be used for publicity.

In other business, the board approved science and math textbooks for the junior highs, approved hiring 18 new teachers and okayed the resignation of Ronald Cook who was listed IA on the draft schedule.

K-C Records Best Quarter in History

Increases in Sales, Earnings Announced at Annual Meeting

NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Corporation's first three months of 1969 was the best single quarter in the company's history, President Guy Minard told shareholders at the annual meeting today.

Sales in the first quarter were $214,862,000, a 15% per cent increase over the $185,972,000 in the first three months of calendar 1968. Net income for the period was $13,996,000, or $1.37 a share. This is an 11 per cent increase over earnings $12,582,000, or $1.23 a share, for the first three months of last year.

Comparisons are based on restated figures for the year-ago quarter. Kimberly-Clark has changed its reporting period to a calendar year from an April 30 fiscal year.

Stock Offering

Minard also announced that a planned stock offering has been recommended by the finance and executive committees of the board of directors to meet financing requirements for worldwide capital expenditure programs. The board was expected to act on the recommendation later today.

The plan calls for issuance to stockholders rights to purchase one additional share of common stock for approximately each 10 shares held. The exact number of shares and the price would be determined just before the offering date and would depend upon stock market conditions at the time.

Minard said the offering, planned for mid-June, would not be made until a registration statement has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and has become effective.

Minard told stockholders that three factors — leadership in production and marketing of nonwoven materials, growth of international operations, and recent internal expansion — will be primary contributions to the company's growth this year.

Good Position

The Kimberly-Clark chief executive said that the company, with its lead in manufacturing capability for scrim-reinforced materials and tissue-fiber-laminate, is a good position to exploit the substantial opportunities available in the nonwoven field.

He reported that two nonwoven products, the Kimbies disposable diaper and Roll-Teri Towels, a durable and disposable household towel, are performing particularly well in initial markets.

Minard said the sales of Kimberly-Clark consumer con-

Tax Ruling Allows Pending Merger To be Consummated

KAUKAUNA — Hammermill Paper Co., Erie, Pa., and Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, announced today they have completed the merger of the companies first announced on Jan. 6 under which Hammermill acquires Thilmany in a one-for-one exchange of approximately 1.5 million shares of common stock.

The merger, was approved by stockholders of both companies March 27, and had not been consummated pending receipt of a tax ruling which now has been received.

Hammermill is a leading manufacturer of business and printing papers with a present annual papermaking capacity of 500,000 tons. Its papermaking operations include divisional operations at Erie, Oswego, N.Y.; Lockhaven, Pa.; Stratham, N.H.; Paper Co., West Springfield, Mass.; Beckett Paper Co., Hamilton, Ohio; Watervliet Paper Co., Watervliet, Mich.; and Grays Harbor Paper Co., Hoquiam, Wash., a jointly-owned subsidiary with International Telephone and Telegraph.

Alabama Plant

Pulpmaking operations are located at Erie, Lockhaven and Riverdale, Ala.

Thilmany is one of the country's important producers of specialty kraft papers and converted packaging products. These are products which Hammermill does not presently make or sell.

In 1968, Thilmany shipped approximately 142,000 tons of products from its principal plant in Kaukauna.

While Thilmany will become a division of Hammermill, its operation and management will be unchanged and will continue under the direction of J. T. Thomas, as president of the Thilmany division of Hammermill.

6th District GOP Keeps Unity, Takes Conservative Stand

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW HOLSTEIN — Repeatedly reminded to preserve their unity, Sixth District Republicans apparently took the advice to heart here Monday as they changed chairmen and endorsed several stiffly conservative resolutions with hardly a breath of dissent or discussion.

Leaving the speaking mostly to the leaders on the stage of New Holstein High School, the district party faithful:

— Elected Peter G. Kohler, 34-year-old heir to Kohler family industrial interests, and Republican Party leadership, as district party chairman for the next two years.

— Said a sentimental farewell to his predecessor, Bernard C. Ziegler, West Bend, who has held the job four years and who admitted he was leaving it reluctantly now.

— Adopted resolutions on U.S. Supreme Court decisions, the welfare system, state fiscal problems, law and order, federal agriculture policies, campus disorders, the Vietnam War, federal spending and taxation, and highway safety.

Special Responsibility

Kohler, whose grandfather and uncle were governors of Wisconsin, declared he felt a special responsibility toward the party. As he accepted the gavel, he called Ziegler a champion of party unity and cooperation and read a telegram of appreciation to Ziegler from Gov. Warren Knowles who was unable to attend.

Kohler has a long record of service to the state GOP, stemming chiefly from activities in the Young Republicans federation in which he has held state and national offices. A Yale University graduate in engineering and political science, he is executive vice president and chairman of Kohler-General, Inc., of Sheboygan Falls. Major 6th District activities have included service as district party treasurer since 1965 and campaign manager for Rep. William A. Steiger in 1966 and 1968.

Seek Re-election

Ziegler confessed he had decided about six weeks ago to seek re-election after having previously notified co-workers on the district executive committee he would be stepping down. He attributed the change of mind to the "turn of events" in the state capital, which he later explained included the budget and tax problems of Gov. Knowles and the GOP-controlled Legislature.

But, he said his decision had come "too late" and he and Kohler had agreed to allow the executive committee to choose between them and they would accept the choice.

Kohler was nominated along with the remaining slate of officers by the caucus nominating committee. No opposition was offered from the floor and the choice was made unanimously.

The 2½-hour caucus began with speeches containing frequent reminders of the importance of continued party unity and of the 1970 elections. Speakers included Ody Fish, state GOP chairman, and Steiger.

Not quite 300 of a possible 820 delegates and alternates attended, to be admonished that the candidates who win a year from next fall will include the state's first constitutional officers to serve 4-year terms, and state legislators chosen then will redraw state political district lines.

Fish reminded the caucus that Democrats controlled the governor's mansion and the Assembly in 1963 when the last reapportionment was undertaken. He attributed the Republican loss of the Seventh District congressional seat to the Democrats this spring to the 1963 redrawing of the district's boundaries.

Steiger urged patience with the Nixon Administration, which he defended against critics including Republicans whom Steiger said want changes more quickly. Steiger said of the new President, "his pace is solid." It is "humanly impossible," Steiger added, to move faster "to

Teachers Have One More Day To Sign Pact

Kimberly Schools Will Start Seeking Replacement Faculty

KIMBERLY — Wednesday is the deadline for village teachers to return contracts. Recruitment for new teachers to replace those who have not returned their contracts will begin Thursday.

The decision to notify the teachers of this arrangement was made Monday by the Kimberly Board of Education.

At the present time, 103 of the 123 teaching contracts are outstanding.

Differences in base pay, salary credit for education beyond the bachelors degree and extra-curricular pay lie between settlement by the Kimberly Education Association (KEA) and the board of education.

The board has offered a base pay of $6,700 for beginning teachers with a bachelors degree. The KEA feels this is low compared to surrounding communities.

KEA members had indicated a proposal to submit letters of intent to the board of education to return signed contracts for the coming year but the proposal was rejected by the board.

Such letters, which had been accepted elsewhere by other boards, permit administrators to know what teachers plan to return, the KEA has stated.

OK Municipal Justice To Handle Town Cases

MENASHA — A municipal justice court will be created by the Town of Menasha to handle town ordinance violations.

The town board Monday night authorized town attorney Everett Stecker to draw up enabling legislation to set up the court.

At the present time, all arrests made in the town must go through Winnebago County courts.

The board also plans to advertise in the near future for the purchase of a squad car for constable Robert Weyenberg. Clerk Robert Jacobs said funds for the car were set up in the town budget.

Specifications for the car must still be approved by the board.

The municipal justice post must be elective, Stecker said. However, he added he believed an appointment could be made until the next election.

Town Chairman Roland Kampo said salary for the post would be left open until the board had some time to discuss it.

Weyenberg had called for creation of a municipal justice court in the town as early as March, 1967, to handle what he had called the "penny ante" cases.

Realizing a fight for the access via state legislators might be futile, committee members instead voted to start a move for state construction of a frontage road, from Winnebago Avenue to Breezewood Lane.

Cecil Street Access to 41 Ruled Out

NEENAH — After learning there was little hope for a southbound access at U.S. 41 and Cecil Street, the public works committee decided to push for construction of a west side frontage road from Winnebago Avenue to Breezewood Lane.

LeRoy Empey, Green Bay, a state highway engineer, told the committee Monday access points at Cecil Street would be dangerous because of being too close to Winnebago Avenue.

"This was one consideration the highway commission took into account when they decided to eliminate the access points," he said. He left little hope for putting the southbound ramp back on the drawing boards to provide access to residents and businesses west of U.S. 41.

Town Threatens to Pull Out of COG

MENASHA — The Town of Menasha may ask to withdraw from the Fox Valley Council of Governments.

A five-man committee was named Monday night by Town Chairman Roland Kampo to study and report back in 60 days on the benefits — or lack of them — in membership in COG and with a recommendation on whether to call a special meeting of town residents to withdraw from the planning organization.

Heading the study committee will be Harry Lopas, 1297 Plank Road, a town resident who make all the changes that we know we ought to be making." He said Nixon's greatest accomplishment "has been progress toward peace" and urged Republicans to remind others that the federal budget currently under revision "is Lyndon Johnson's budget, modified by Dick Nixon."

Among 15 resolutions passed by the caucus, the party volunteers opposed "judicial legislation" by the U.S. Supreme Court; urged "a new system of social welfare" to aid the "temporarily distressed" but avoid discouraging initiative and removal from welfare rolls; commended Knowles and the legislative joint finance committee for their handling of current state budget problems.

Lights Ward Off Burglars, Police Advise

Appleton police, in the wake of a rash of house burglaries, today urged residents to leave a light burning in their vacant houses during night hours.

Police noted that in most of the recent burglary cases, the houses that were hit were completely darkened and doors often were left unlocked.

"Burglars look for darkened houses. They naturally assume the occupants are gone," a detective said. Most of the burglaries have occurred in early evening hours, while occupants were "gone for just a few hours."

Police also asked that persons who observe unusual activity around their homes call police immediately.

Often, police explained, the would-be burglar, noticing a house without lights on, will first ring a doorbell to determine if anyone is home.

Annexation Decision Stuns City Officials

ed to the city council's welfare-ordinance committee this week for review and officially received at next Wednesday night's council meeting, according to Geenen.

With regard to the Labor Temple and Marcus properties, the city attorney anticipated that new petitions calling for annexation will be filed with the city within the next 10 days.

Geenen conferred with City Engineer Tom Harp Monday afternoon and learned the city intends to provide services to all the land involved in the proposed annexation before July.

"It should be in the city by then," Geenen commented, adding the new target time would be the latter part of May or early June.

Ira Livingston, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute, said creation of the island of four homes had been the town's main objection to the annexation.

"As the boundaries were drawn, we didn't think it was in the best interest of the town or city," Livingston declared, recalling the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development made the same finding.

Livingston said there was nothing to prevent the city from initiating another annexation, based on revised boundaries.

"The recourse is to start over," Livingston said. "That is what we would do."

Towns Fight Annexations

Menasha, Harrison To Try to Overturn Action by Appleton

The towns of Menasha and Harrison will go to court in June in an attempt to overturn Appleton's annexation of 120 acres of southside property in 1967.

A pre-trial conference was held at Chilton last week involving legal counsel for the city and towns.

Because both towns instituted the action shortly after the annexation took effect, the cases have been consolidated.

The annexation, commonly referred to as the Roeland Annexation, consisted mostly of property in Harrison, including a power substation of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., and a small area in the Town of Menasha.

Since the annexation, the city has received the utility tax which formerly went to the town. It amounted to about $12,000 in 1968.

Ripon College Eases ROTC Requirement for Second Time

RIPON — For the second time in two years, Ripon College has reduced the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) requirements for men students.

By a 2 to 1 vote last week, the faculty reduced the present one year of required ROTC to a one-semester requirement with no military drill, the college announced Monday.

The faculty also authorized exceptional students to exceed the normal college limitation of four courses in any given semester in order to enroll in advanced military science courses during their junior and senior years.

Although some faculty members spoke for an all-volunteer program, the revised program retaining the required semester was approved 2 to 1. College officials believe the required portion of the program is essential for the survival of the entire program.

Six Imported Siberian Tigers will be making their second appearance in an American circus at Green Bay Arena Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Here two of them are shown with European trainer Josef Marcan

State Moves to End Employment Discrimination

MADISON — To eliminate all appearance of discrimination in employment in Wisconsin because of sex, the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations has arranged for the introduction of two bills in the Legislature.

The first would repeal the law, applying only to women, that requires employers in manufacturing or mercantile establishments to provide seats for female employees and to permit their use when they are not necessarily engaged in the active duties for which they were employed.

The second would extend the state minimum wage law, which now applies only to women and minors, to cover all employees in interstate commerce. Federal law covers the majority of employees who are engaged in employment involved in interstate commerce.

The present state law does not set a minimum scale of pay, but authorizes the department to determine a "living wage."

Kaukauna Lions to Sell Brooms and Light Bulbs

KAUKAUNA — Members of the Lions Club will hold a broom and light bulb sale from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. May 5 and 6 on the south side of the city. Lions will make door-to-door solicitations.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for charity work in the city. Serving as co-chairman will be Noel Diffatte and Robert Smith.

Perform at Green Bay Siberian Tigers New To American Circuses

GREEN BAY — Making their first American circus tour, six huge Siberian tigers, with their famed European trainer, Josef Marcan, have moved into the Brown County Arena for their performances with the Dobritch Circus next weekend.

The animals and trainer came to Green Bay from New York where they recently made their circus debut.

The wild animal act is completely new, Marcan explained. Some months ago the tigers were acquired by John Cuneo, head of the Hawthorn Circus Corp. Cuneo brought Marcan to America. The trainer had worked with tigers and lions in Balkan and Russian productions for 15 years, including two years with the Moscow Circus.

For three months Marcan and the tigers worked together at Sarasota, Fla. There Marcan perfected the act in which one of the tigers rides horseback in the cage, but he discovered an American trainer already had succeeded in perfecting this feat.

Marcan then went one better. Now his tiger rides horseback — and Marcan, at the same time, rides on the back of the tiger.

Fine Animals

The tigers which will perform at the Arena, according to Marcan, are some of the finest animals in show business today. He intends to keep them that way and looks after them personally and continuously.

"Feeding is most important," he says. "Tigers are meat eaters — they do not eat vegetables, hay, oats or grain of any kind. But they are finicky about the meat they consume — they want fresh horsemeat or fresh beef and every ounce of fat must be removed before the meat is placed in the cages."

"Every Monday we give each tiger from three to five eggs and a quart of milk. This helps to keep their coats bright and shiny."

Feeding Costly

Feeding seven hungry tigers is costly, the trainer pointed out. Each animal will consume from 10 to 12 pounds of meat every day. Because horsemeat is not available in all the cities in which a circus plays, the trucks hauling the animals are equipped with freezers so a supply can be purchased in cities where there are processing plants making dog, cat and fur farm foods.

The fresh beef is bought from

Two major expansions recently completed — increased capacity at Coosa River Newsprint in Alabama and a new consumer products plant at Beech Island, S.C. — are now in full operation, Minard said. The company also expects to start a new tampon producing plant in Arkansas and a business papers machine in Ohio this year.

strongly to the cruciality of the job while superintendents noted objective factors such as the experience of the man, education, and others.

—Not factors, said Smith, are administrative help available, length of contract, fringe benefits, community cost of living, the wealth of the system, salary levels of other administrators and city officials and the salary level of business executives.

System Evaluation

In an afternoon speech, Dr. George Brain, dean of the School of Education, Washington State University, Pullman, Wash., said a program is apparently on firm ground for continued evaluation of the nation's education system.

The program, a national assessment of four groups of persons from age nine to 35, will assess the quality and progress of American education through a systematic analysis. This will judge subjective as well as objective capabilities of persons, but the report will not be on individuals but on regions.

Brain, who noted the mistrust that this would create a national curriculum is subsiding, said the Educational Council of States, a group of governors and other state officials, has agreed to take over the program. A group of educators and the support of the Carnegie Corp. got it on its feet a few years ago.

B52s Bombing Enemy Targets

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has launched another B52 bombing campaign to harass North Vietnamese troops in the jungles north of Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

In a 24-hour period Monday and today, 36 Stratofortresses dropped more than 1,000 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese bases in the enemy's War Zones C and D. The strikes ranged from 71 miles northwest of Saigon to 55 miles northeast of the capital. Some were within 1 1/2 miles of the Cambodian border.

Spokesmen said the bombing concentration in War Zone C is the heaviest of the war, with nearly 200 bombing raids flown along the Cambodian border in the past week.

The bulk of four North Vietnamese divisions is said to be concentrating in these two zones.

For the past four years, U.S. troops have battled enemy soldiers in the 2,000 uninhabited square miles of War Zone C, but all the fighting apparently has resolved nothing.

Replace Their Losses

Two North Vietnamese divisions operating there have always been able to replace their losses from bases across the Cambodian border, using Zone C as a staging area for attacks into populated areas and allied bases to the southeast.

Sources said some captured documents mention another enemy offensive in the summer-autumn months, but intelligence officers have been unable to determine any firm trend. The aim of the stepped up B52 raids is to prevent the North Vietnamese troops from getting organized.

The Communist command's spring offensive, now in its 10th week, has tapered off sharply to about a dozen rocket and mortar attacks each night and only scattered ground assaults.

Many of these occur in the 3rd Military Corps area, the most critical in South Vietnam because it includes the seat of government, Saigon.

Chief aim of these attacks is to inflict American casualties and undermine the influence of the Saigon government.

No Large Commitment

U.S. analysts feel the enemy is trying to make his presence felt in the 3rd Corps without any large commitment at present. The Communist command has placed one regiment from each of its four divisions in forward combat areas while holding the two other regiments from each division to the rear.

The U.S. Command announced that enemy gunners shot down three more American helicopters and an F4 Phantom fighter-bomber Monday, killing two Americans and wounding five.

Two of the helicopters were gunships helping to break up an ambush 55 miles north of Saigon in which two other Americans were killed, 11 were wounded and several trucks in a 25-vehicle American convoy were shot up. U.S. headquarters said the bodies of 11 North Vietnamese soldiers were found after a two-hour fight.

The third helicopter was shot down in the Central Highlands 43 miles northwest of Ban Me Thuot, while the Phantom went down near the Laotian border just to the north of the A Shau Valley.

17 Downed in Week

Seventeen U.S. helicopters have been reported shot down and destroyed during the past week. Several others have been lost in collisions and in enemy rocket, mortar and ground attacks, but the U.S. Command will not say how many.

Latest available U.S. figures put total American helicopter losses in the Vietnam war at 2,572.

A U.S. Command spokesman said he could not explain the rash of helicopter losses in the past week, one of the heaviest of the war. He said it could be a combination of several factors, including more helicopter missions, more enemy guns and better shooting. It is known also from other sources that the Communist command has increased its antiaircraft defenses in South Vietnam.

The Phantom was the first fighter-bomber reported shot down over South Vietnam in nearly three weeks. It raised to 2,672 the number of fixed-wing U.S. airplanes reported lost in the war.

San Francisco Disturbance

Negroes, Police Tangle After Raid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negroes clashed with police in San Francisco and drove police and firemen from the scene of a fire in Cairo, Ill., with gun shots in outbursts of violence. Two fire bombings caused minor damage in a Negro district of Des Moines, Iowa.

The disturbance in San Francisco broke out after police raided a headquarters of the Black Panther party Monday night.

A television cameraman was beaten by a group of Negro youths and hospitalized with broken facial bones. Passers-by were threatened, cars were smashed and passing police cars peppered with bottles and rocks until a fog rolled in and cooled tempers. Police arrested 16.

Police said the trouble started when a squad car passed by Black Panther headquarters and found a man exhorting a crowd over a loudspeaker to attend a rally here Thursday morning to "Free Huey Newton, a Panther serving a sentence for manslaughter in the death of an Oakland policeman, will have a bail hearing in federal court at that time. Several groups are sponsoring a rally to demand his release on bail.

When officers ordered the man at the loudspeaker to stop using profane language, a crowd of several hundred Negroes became abusive, police said. Police reinforcements arrived, and officers entered the headquarters.

"I was greeted with a rifle in the stomach," said Sgt. Ralph Schaumeff. "I yelled 'firearms' and fell back."

Police fired seven tear gas grenades into the building and one officer raised his .45 and let off four shots into the air over the crowd.

Officers cleared the building, seizing a box full of guns and records.

Firebombings and sporadic gunfire flared in Cairo in a third straight night of racial disturbance.

White Hats Group

Cause of the outbreak of violence was not known. The city of 9,000 had been tense for more than a month since Negroes complained of harassment by a white vigilante group called the White Hats.

Fires broke out Monday night in two homes, a tavern and a grocery store located near Pyramid Courts, a predominantly Negro housing project which has been the scene of past disturbances.

Within two hours fires were reported in four more buildings and sporadic gunfire was heard from around Pyramid Courts.

Firemen answering an alarm at the Tri-County Health Center, near the project, were fired at and a bullet pierced the windshield of a fire truck.

Firemen refused to enter the area when a small building near the health center was ignited later. Police reinforcements were sent to the scene to protect the firemen when the health center itself again caught fire, causing heavy damage.

The police and firemen abandoned the area when more shots were fired at them and the fire truck was struck again.

Two fires attributed to incendiary bombs broke out in the predominantly Negro area near north side of Des Moines Monday night. There had been a series of such fires since the headquarters of the Black Panther party was hit by an explosion Sunday.

Goldwater, 30-year-old stockbroker son of the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, was opposed by Attorney John K. Van de Kamp, 33, a Democrat.

The district is traditionally Republican. The seat was vacated by Ed Reinecke, a Republican who resigned to take an appointment as lieutenant governor.

In a recent primary, Goldwater polled 37,679 votes against 16,758 for Van de Kamp. Since neither won a majority of the 122,501 votes cast, a runoff was required.

Pentagon 'Hiding' Battle Death Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outspoken Senate critic of the Vietnam war says the Pentagon is hiding the real number of U.S. battle deaths from the public by claiming many are accidental.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said many of the approximately 6,000 American deaths in Vietnam designated "accident or incident" should have been listed as battle fatalities.

Young, a member of the Armed Services Committee and an early critic of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, said concealing the true number of battle fatalities "is a clumsy effort to deceive the public about casualties in this most unpopular and undeclared war."

"Trying to Hide It"

"The number of combat killed and wounded have become so great—only the world wars were more deadly in recent history—they are trying to hide it."

Young said he had found deaths often are termed "accidents" or "incidents" when they result from such things as the collision of helicopters during a firefight or when a truck driver loses control under fire and soldiers die in the wreck.

In World War II such fatalities were always termed combat deaths," he said.

"The Pentagon advised me it is official policy for the ranking officer in a combat zone, frequently a lieutenant or even a sergeant, to determine whether a GI died in combat or due to a so-called accident or incident."

The Ohio senator said he was successful in having the death of a soldier from his state changed from the classification "incidental" to "killed in action."

Young said the Defense Department reported the soldier died from sun stroke during a firefight.

"He was a farm boy who had worked in the fields and his family just didn't believe sun stroke killed him," Young said.

"I checked into it and the Pentagon reported his face and body were reddened by the sun while he waited three hours to be evacuated by helicopter from combat."

"Finally they acknowledged he was waiting to be evacuated because he had three bullet holes in him. And they call that an incidental death! Well they changed it."

Young said he had found deaths often are termed "accidents" or "incidents" when they result from such things as the collision of helicopters during a firefight or when a truck driver loses control under fire and soldiers die in the wreck.

In World War II such fatalities were always termed combat deaths," he said.

reported in four more buildings and sporadic gunfire was heard from around Pyramid Courts.

Firemen answering an alarm at the Tri-County Health Center, near the project, were fired at and a bullet pierced the windshield of a fire truck.

Firemen refused to enter the area when a small building near the health center was ignited later. Police reinforcements were sent to the scene to protect the firemen when the health center itself again caught fire, causing heavy damage.

The police and firemen abandoned the area when more shots were fired at them and the fire truck was struck again.

Two fires attributed to incendiary bombs broke out in the predominantly Negro area near north side of Des Moines Monday night. There had been a series of such fires since the headquarters of the Black Panther party was hit by an explosion Sunday.

Goldwater, 30-year-old stockbroker son of the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, was opposed by Attorney John K. Van de Kamp, 33, a Democrat.

The district is traditionally Republican. The seat was vacated by Ed Reinecke, a Republican who resigned to take an appointment as lieutenant governor.

In a recent primary, Goldwater polled 37,679 votes against 16,758 for Van de Kamp. Since neither won a majority of the 122,501 votes cast, a runoff was required.

Michigan Man Heads Young Presidents Unit

HONOLULU (AP) — A Midwest food company executive has been elected president of the Young Presidents Organization, a national group whose members headed their own firms before the age of 40.

Robert Vlasic, president of Vlasic Food Products Co., Detroit, Mich., was elected Monday at the group's annual meeting here.

Vlasic, 42, joined the family wholesale food distributing business in 1950 and became its president seven years later.

Every Man's Hero

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Walter Brisebois is going to be tried June 13 on a charge of "intimidating" a train.

He did it by parking his car on the Canadian National Railway tracks to get even for a long delay at a crossing.

It wasn't the first time Brisebois had been tied up at a CNR crossing, but it was the longest.

"Eighteen minutes! The top of my head was ready to blow off. I vowed right then and there to fight them if I had to go to the Supreme Court," he said of his recent experience.

Parked on Tracks

When the train finally passed by, Brisebois, 34, drove his car onto the tracks and left it there.

He stepped outside to smoke and waited for another train to come along. It did. The engineer stopped it, backed up, moved forward again and stopped.

A police car was summoned.

"Engine trouble?" asked the officer.

"No," replied the hero of the common man. "I'm going to hold him up for 18 minutes."

"You're gonna WHAT?" Brisebois explained.

The officer left to seek the advice of a higher authority.

Two officers returned, and ordered Brisebois to move his car. He refused.

Brisebois was arrested on a charge of "intimidating" the train, a rarely used misdemeanor charge.

A defense fund, which has attracted small donations from sympathizers in Windsor as well as Detroit, is up to $50.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

A GAUGE OF GREATNESS

Dwight D. Eisenhower once devised his own scale for measuring the greatness of great men.

Now this scale is made public for the first time in a new book, "Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness," by two-time Pulitzer prize winner Reiman Morin.

Morin's big, well illustrated, handsome volume not only discloses much new information about the war time general and peace time president, but it measures Eisenhower on his own gauge.

NHL Scoring, MVP Awards To Esposito

Orr, Delvecchio, Grant Receive Other Trophies

By HAL BOCK
MONTREAL (AP) — Resplendent in an iridescent tan suit, Bobby Hull was serving as master of ceremonies at the National Hockey League's annual awards luncheon and was shooting barbs instead of pucks.

Glenn Hall and Jacques Plante had just stepped forward Monday to accept the Vezina Trophy which the St. Louis Blues' goalies had earned for the best defensive record in the league when Hull wheeled and fired on the assembled NHL general managers and coaches.

"How," said Hull, "you let two goalies like Glenn and Jacques land with the same club, I'll never know."

It was, obviously a mistake. Hull, more sympathetic with his Chicago bosses, played it straight when ex-teammate Phil Esposito stepped up to take the Hart Trophy as Most Valuable Player and Art Ross Trophy as scoring champ.

Two years ago the champion Black Hawks traded Esposito to the sixth place Bruins. This season with Esposito scoring a record 126 points Chicago was sixth and Boston second.

No Sympathy

Obviously, another mistake. "You don't want to help the other guy," said Emile Francis, general manager of the New York Rangers, whose club finished third in the East Division.

"The clubs ahead of you don't want you to catch them and the ones behind you don't want you to get any better than you are. It's tough to make a deal within your own division."

Nevertheless, Francis has been shopping, he's held repeated huddles with the Black Hawks. Dennis Hull is reportedly available. Chicago is after defense and goaltending help.

Montreal, currently concerned with knocking off St. Louis and grabbing a record 14th Stanley Cup, might be willing to do business after the playoffs are out of the way.

Defenseman J. C. Tremblay has fallen out of favor with the fans here and may be headed elsewhere.

"We'll play better," promised Scotty Bowman, coach of the Blues said, while the Blues and Canadiens prepared for game No. 2 in the best-of-7 final.

Montreal took the opener 3-1 on Sunday stretching its undefeated streak over two seasons to 15 games against the Blues.

Sure not to be mentioned in the trade talk were the individual trophy winners—Esposito, Boston's Bobby Orr, who won his second straight James Norris Trophy as the best defenseman; Minnesota's Danny Grant, Calder Trophy winner as rookie of the year; and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, who took a Lady Byng Trophy for clean and effective play.

Bengtson, Olejniczak Head for NFL-AFL Realignment Talks

GREEN BAY (AP) — Officials of the Green Bay Packers certainly never, never will surrender the Bear rivalry. Most any other change might be acceptable, he said. "If some other changes have to be made, I'm sure other benefits will accrue to the Packers."

Discussions, getting underway today, involved suggestions that the 10-team AFL and 16-team NFL be reshaped as two 13-member leagues.

Many NFL spokesmen, and most fans who were asked their opinions in recent polls, have said they would prefer maintaining two separate leagues, with an interlocking schedule.

Bengtson, successor to Vince Lombardi as general manager, is representing the Packers at an NFL meeting for the first time in a top-executive capacity. He said he plans to do more listening than talking, at least as a starter.

The Appleton Foxes' game at Quad Cities and all of the other three scheduled Midwest League contests were postponed Monday night because of cold weather.

Tonight, the Foxes are slated to open a 2-game series at Waterloo against the Tri-Cities Hawks. The Hawks' new team designation refers to Waterloo, Cedar Falls and Evansdale.

Abernathy and Santo Lead Cubs Past Phillies, 2 to 1

Braves Pin 13th Defeat On Houston

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Devilish old Leo Durocher figures Ted Abernathy's underhanded tricks are too good to be true.

"It's seldom you get out of jams like that," the Chicago skipper said Monday night after Abernathy, the ancient submariner of the Cubs' bullpen, escaped a bases-loaded, none-out bind in the 10th inning, saving a 2-1 victory over Philadelphia.

The 36-year-old relief specialist made Ron Santo's go-ahead single in the top of the 10th stand up by getting two Philadelphia pinch hitters to tap into force plays at the plate, then retiring a third on a roller to third baseman Santo.

"That was some kind of pitching," said Durocher, who admitted he'd expected the game would get away from Abernathy. "Three ground balls—that's what you have to have."

While Abernathy's underhand sinkerball was submerging the Phillies, a ball boy's ninth-inning blooper helped lift the Los Angeles Dodgers past San Diego 4-3.

Touched Fair Ball
With one out and one on in the ninth, the ball boy, stationed in the left field corner to retrieve foul balls, touched a fair ball off the bat of pinch hitter Wes Parker. Parker was awarded a triple, tying the game, and pinch hitter Ken Boyer followed with a game-winning infield single.

Hank Aaron's 513th career homer paced Atlanta to a 12-1 romp over hapless Houston; St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 6-2 behind left-hander Steve Carlton and San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3 in other NL games. The New York Mets and Montreal Expos were idle.

Abernathy, a 36-year-old journeyman whose 84 appearances for the Cubs four years ago stands as a National League mark, rescued Ken Holtzman with one out and one on in the ninth, getting Rich Allen to ground into a double play.

But the reliever dug himself into a deeper hole in the 10th, when Deron Johnson's single, Don Money's safe bunt and catcher Randy Hundley's throwing error put runners on second and third with nobody out.

Walked Rojas
Abernathy walked Cookie Rojas intentionally, filling the bases, and then disposed of Johnny Briggs, Ron Stone and Rick Joseph.

Allen's third homer—the second hit off Holtzman—tied the game 1-1 in the seventh, but the Cubs regained the lead in the 10th on a two-base error by left fielder Rojas, a sacrifice and Santo's single.

The Dodgers trailed 3-2 in the ninth when Bill Russell delivered a pinch single. Parker, out of the starting line-up with a pulled muscle, then drilled a liner that dropped just inside the line in left. When the ball boy, thinking the ball was foul, picked it up, third base umpire Paul Pryor waved Russell home and awarded a triple to Parker.

Beat Out Roller
Parker held third as Willie Davis grounded to second baseman Jose Arica for the second out, but Boyer broke the tie by beating out a roller to short.

Nate Colbert's fourth homer in six games—a two-run blast in the fourth inning—had given the Padres a 3-1 lead. The Dodgers closed the gap in the eighth on successive two-out singles by Andy Kosco, Tom Haller and Bill Sudakis.

Aaron moved past ex-teammate Ed Mathews into sixth place on the all-time homer list

Surprising Senators Rap Tigers, 6-1, for Fifth Straight Victory

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whatever Ted Williams has been saying to his hitters, they have been repeating loudly over and over again the past five games, but how do you explain how Washington's relief pitchers have been sounding off?

Williams, one of baseball's greatest sluggers, had hoped to impart some of his knowledge to the Senators' hitters and apparently has succeeded as they have spoken up by hammering 39 runs for five consecutive victories.

But Manager Williams must have some pretty good ideas, too, on how to get batters out because his bullpen has not allowed a run in the last 35 2/3 innings he has called on it.

The lessons worked well again Monday night as the Senators rolled up No. 5 by pasting Detroit 6-1 with Hank Allen driving in three runs and Dick Bosman posting four scoreless innings in relief of winner Camilo Pascual.

While the Senators were sounding off again, the Boston Red Sox finally were silenced when Fritz Peterson of the New York Yankees stopped them on three hits for a 1-0 victory, the first time in 11 games the Sox haven't hit a homer.

Perry Spins Shutout
Minnesota blanked Kansas City 4-0 as Jim Perry scattered seven hits in the only afternoon game in a schedule curtailed by rain.

Baltimore's game at Cleveland and the California contest at Seattle were washed out at night.

The Senators, who had managed only 25 runs in 12 games before their victory streak, jumped on Earl Wilson for two runs in the first inning on Allen's run-scoring hit and a throwing error by Al Kaline.

They waited until the eighth to break loose again when Allen singled in two more runs and hits by Ken McMullen and Paul Casanova brought home two more.

Meanwhile, Pascual had held the Tigers to Dick McAuliffe's lead-off homer in the first before leaving after five innings in the 43 degree weather. That's when Bosman took over and blanked Detroit the final four innings, giving him 8 2/3 shutout innings in the bullpen spree.

Dennis Higgins has nine scoreless innings of the streak that began April 19, Casey Cox 8 2/3, Dave Baldwin 4 1/3, Bob Humphreys and Jim Miles two each and Joe Coleman one.

Twenty-three of those resounding 35 1/3 innings have come in the last five games, which have, lo and behold, lifted Washington's once shy violet of the American League over the .500 mark and ahead of the mighty Tigers into fourth place in the East Division, only 3 1/2 games behind leading Baltimore.

Record Spree Stopped
The Red Sox had broken records with 26 homers in 10 consecutive games and 27 in 11 before running into Peterson, 3-2, who pitched the first complete game victory and the first shutout against them all season.

The run he needed came in the sixth with one out when Bobby Murcer lined the third hit off rookie Ray Jarvis, 1-1, making his first major league start, and Roy White doubled him home.

Bill Brown to Be Free Agent

Viking Fullback Played Without Contract in 1968

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fullback Bill Brown of the Minnesota Vikings, called the "best fullback in the NFL" by his coach, apparently will become a professional football free agent Thursday.

General Manager Jim Finks of the Vikings left the Twin Cities Monday for the National and American Football League meetings in New York, still without Brown's signature on a contract.

Brown, who led the Central Division champion Vikings in rushing with 805 yards and touchdowns with 11 last season, played without a contract in 1968 and took a 10 per cent salary cut to play out his option.

As of Thursday, any professional team legally can negotiate a contract with the 5-foot-11, 230-pound Brown.

Yesterdays Stars

BATTING — Hank Aaron, Braves, moved into sole possession of sixth place on the all-time home run list with his 513th with two on and doubled in a fourth run as Atlanta routed Houston 12-1.

PITCHING — Fritz Peterson, Yankees, stopped Boston on three hits for a 1-0 victory as he became the first hurler to pitch a shutout and a complete game victory against the Red Sox this season and the first to hold them without a homer in 12 games.

with a three-run wallop in the third inning. He delivered another run with a double in the fourth.

George Stone, making his first start after posting three victories in relief, held the Astros to an unearned run and six hits until the seventh, when he left for a pinch hitter.

The loss was the sixth in a row and 13th in 14 games for Houston.

Carter fired a four-hitter, squaring his record at 2-2, as the Cards breezed past the Pirates after striking for three runs in the first inning. Joe Torre's two-run single keyed the burst.

Curt Flood drove in one run with a fourth-inning single and doubled and scored another on Vada Pinson's single in the eighth.

Bobby Bonds smashed a lead-off homer in the first inning and scored two more runs on singles by Willie Mays and Ron Hunt, leading the Giants past Cincinnati in a day game.

Gaylord Perry, staked to a 4-0, survived seventh and ninth-inning homers by Tony Perez as the Giants protected their share of the NL West Division lead.

JIM MURRAY

Rickey Loved John Podres' Change-Up

I don't suppose anyone ever threw a baseball with more cockiness, more pure insolence, than John Joseph Podres

Johnny didn't walk to a mound, he swaggered "Gimme the damn ball!" was his attitude. He looked at the batter as if he were something crawling out of a raisin pie

"Here, hit this!" he seemed to say as he served the ball up. Very few men could. When Johnny Podres was right, the game was over in one hour and 10 minutes

Johnny threw the ball out of his uniform. And it was like trying to pick your brother-in-law out of a shirt-sleeved crowd shot in the bleachers. Johnny kicked his legs and waved his arms, and the ball was as invisible as a phone call the first 50 feet

They ought to make him ring a bell when he lets go of the ball," batters used to growl. One of them wanted to stop a game once to check how many arms and legs he had. "He looks like one of those Hindu statues," Ellie Howard once complained.

John may have been the best pitcher in the game never to win 20 games. He had stuff even a Sandy Koufax would send away for. He pitched the last Dodger-Giant game ever played in the Polo Grounds and, my recollection is, the Giants never hit a ball higher than the grass or farther than second base. The fastball came in across the lower knees, the curve-ball snapped like a 20-mile team whip. The game was over while some of the fans were still coming up from the subway

But the change-up was really Podres' pitch. It came up there as unexpectedly as the wife at the office Christmas party — and with as disastrous results for the batter. For the hitter it was like pushing against a barricaded door all night, and it suddenly gives way. Lots of them fell on their nose trying to meet it. When they did make contact, there was a sound like a grapefruit falling out a window.

It was a pitch most favored by the late Branch Rickey. "Only one per cent of pitchers can be taught it effectively," manager Walter Alston observes. In the hands of Podres, it had batters looking like drunks walking a wire. "You had to have a parasol to keep your balance," Roy Campanella, who used to catch it, used to say.

Johnny never won 20 games because he couldn't seem to smuggle his back through August. In fact, he sometimes couldn't escort it through the ninth inning. And John's best year (1961) he started 29 games and only finished six. The next year, he started 40 and only finished eight. In his last full year, he started 22 and finished two

But John's fearlessness won the only World Series Brooklyn ever won. Down two games to none in 1955, the Dodgers started John on his 23rd birthday in the third game. He beat New York, 8-3. They started him in the seventh game that year and, while the borough dripped with Rosary beads and glowed with candles, John shut out the Yanks, 2-0.

In 1963, the Dodgers, coming off their hysteric collapse in 1962, came into St. Louis only one game ahead of the surging Cardinals, who had won 20 of 21. Johnny slammed the door on them and the pennant coolly.

John came back to Dodger Stadium the other night as a castoff struggling for a place on an expansion team, San Diego, facing a Dodger lineup consisting mostly of kids who don't even know where Brooklyn is. A lot of us were rooting for old John. But the ball isn't as hard to pick up as a meteor anymore. And the changeup is effective only when it is a legit "change," not a steady diet.

Of all people, John Podres was the first victim of the fences being moved in 10 feet. Dodger Andy Kosco hit a changeup 360 1/2 feet. The fence is only 360. A year ago, it would have been Out No. 3. This year, it was grand slam home run.

The people who cheered should be sent to their rooms. (Copyright, 1969)

Viking, Ripon Netters Match Perfect Marks

Meet Wednesday;
Lawrence Tourney
Set This Weekend

The Lawrence University tennis team faces its busiest week of the season with a dual match against Ripon College Wednesday and the 9-team Lawrence Invitational meet Friday and Saturday.

Coach Ron Roberts' Vikings are currently sporting a 6-0 record after sweeping a pair of matches last Saturday. The Vikes downed St. Olaf and Carleton by identical 6-3 scores.

The meet Wednesday with Ripon should provide the Vikes with one of their toughest tests of the season. The Redmen bring a perfect record (7-0) to the Lawrence Courts for the match which gets underway at 3 p.m.

The Vikes had one of their longest days of tennis on record last Saturday when the St. Olaf match started at 8 a.m. and the Carleton match was finally completed at 8:30 p.m. Rain and cold weather forced the final phase of the Carleton match indoors as it was completed at the Fox Cities Racquet Club.

Protect Records

Tom Vanderhyden, Paul Croake and Jim Simmons protected their perfect records by winning last weekend. Each has a 6-0 mark. Vanderhyden plays at the No. 1 spot with Croake at No. 4 and Simmons No. 6 in singles. Vanderhyden and Dave Holzworth also have won six straight as a doubles combination.

The Vikes will be defending champion in the big invitational meet this weekend. Singles play will be conducted Friday and the doubles competition will be held on Saturday. Action both days gets underway at 9 a.m.

Schools entered in the invitational include Carroll, Carthage, Concordia, Lakeland, Marquette, Milton, Milwaukee Technical College, Ripon and Lawrence.

Lawrence won the tournament last year, with Marquette finishing second and Ripon third.

Valley Soccer Club Plays Tie, Duels Sheboygan

The Fox Valley Soccer Club will play its second home game of the season at 2 p.m. Sunday against Sheboygan at the Industrial Park, S. Lyndale Ave.

Last Sunday, the Bombers played to a 5-5 tie with Victoria of Milwaukee. John Adema scored three times for Fox Valley, while John Groves accounted for the other two goals.

The Fox Valley Club now owns a record of two wins and a tie in three league starts.

Appleton BRL Needs Sponsor

The Appleton Babe Ruth League is short one team sponsor — for the 1969 season.

Any sponsor interested in backing the team should contact Frank Tralio, league president.

The final tryouts for spots on Southern division teams will be held Saturday at Hoover Field.

Lawrence and Oshkosh Sailing Clubs Hosts For Weekend Regatta

Schools invited to the regatta include Cincinnati University, Iowa, Marquette, Michigan State, Notre Dame, Northwestern and Wisconsin. The schools are all members of the Midwestern Collegiate Sailing Association.

Must be Comfortable, Says Palmer Nearly as Many Putting Styles As Golfers on Today's Pro Tour

By BOB GREEN

DALLAS (AP) — There are who hunches his powerful, sloping almost as many putting styles, ing shoulders, his feet apart and quirks and mannerisms as there are golfers on the pro tour.

Arnold Palmer agonizes over every shot, his putty face reflecting every emotion.

"It's largely a matter of getting comfortable," said Palmer.

Julius Boros is just the opposite. The 49-year-old veteran is one of the quickest on the tour. He lines it up, takes one practice swing, places the blade in front of the ball, pulls it over and lets it go—even on the toughest, trickiest.

He's so fast he's been accused of hitting it on the run.

The same applies to Lee Trevino. He lines them up from every angle, but wastes no time once he's over the ball.

"It probably comes from his days on the municipal courses," says Byron Nelson. "Most people who have played on fast greens—and municipal courses in Texas usually are fast—are quick putters."

Sam Snead had to abandon his croquet style, between-the-legs shot when the PGA outlawed it. So he went to what he calls a side-saddle, facing the cup, feet together, the club on the outside of his right foot, his right hand only a few inches above the blade.

Frank Beard has a classic style, keeping the blade low both on the backswing and follow through.

Billy Casper, one of the best, is another classicist and has little to distinguish him—except that he gets more than his share in the cup. Long a colorless character, he now will raise a fist in exultation when a key one drops in.

George Archer drapes his long frame over a goose-neck putter. Others use weighted blades, thin blades.

One of the more unusual is Chi Chi Rodriguez' latest acquisition—a putter with a 24-inch shaft. He has to bend almost double, his head at waist level, looking like a man searching for a ball lost in the rough.

"It's my daughter's putter," he quips.

Detroit Loses To Washington

The victory boosted the Yankees into second place, ahead of Boston and 2 1/2 lengths back of the Orioles.

Perry, starting only because rookie Tom Hall was delayed returning from military reserve duty in North Carolina, also coasted in after Killebrew's sacrifice fly in the first inning and Rich Reese's three-run homer in the fourth. The victory gave the Twins a one game lead over Oakland in the West Division.

Encourage Competition Drastic Reduction In Engine Sizes for Stock Autos by 1971

By BLOYS BRITT

NEW YORK (AP) — The Auto Competition Committee of the U. S. (ACCUS) announced Monday a drastic reduction in engine sizes for stock car racing effective with the 1971 season.

The ACCUS, which sets racing rules in this country, said the action was taken to encourage competition by cars more representative of those on sale in dealer show rooms.

It also apparently was intended to reduce speeds on the major racing tracks, which this year climbed into the 190 mile per hour bracket at Daytona Beach, Fla., and will be higher at a new track under construction at Talladega, Ala.

The ACCUS also set a higher minimum production requirement for 1970, apparently to encourage all manufacturers to engage in the sport on a factory basis. Ford and Chrysler are the only automakers which presently maintain big production car racing teams, although American Motors is participating in small sedan competition this season.

Beginning in 1971, a limit of six liters (366 cubic inches) in engine displacement will be in effect for stock cars eligible to race in events of the United States Auto Club and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. The present limit is seven liter or 430 cubic inches.

The present five liter (305 cubic inch) limits for cars competing in NASCAR's Grand Touring division and in the Trans-American sedan series of the Sports Car Club of America will continue next year and in 1971.

All engines concerned in the announcement are push-rod actuated, two valves per cylinder designs.

The ACCUS said that all new car bodies and engines intended for stock car racing eligibility next year must be announced by Jan. 1, or April 15 for mid-year models.

The present production requirements of 500 car bodies will be raised next year to 1,000—or a figure representing one-half the total number of franchised dealers of the make, whichever is larger.

Bob Felheim's 589 total was good for runnerup honors, and Mike Dorow followed with 569. Trailing were Vern Atkins, 565; Dave Henderson, 560; and Char Dorow, 190.

Linda Spearbreaker took the spotlight in the State Couples League also at 41 Bowl, as she fired a 222 line en route to 530.

Any John Behnke

Who was the biggest long shot ever to win a Kentucky Derby? ... Answer is Danerail who won the 1913 Derby ... The odds on Danerail were 92 to 1.

Did you know that only once in the 93-year history of the Kentucky Derby has a female horse been able to win ... Who was the only female to win the Derby? ... It was Regret, in 1915.

Here's an oddity about the Triple Crown of horse racing ... As you know, to win the Triple Crown a horse must win the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont ... Oddly enough, in the eight years from 1941 through 1948, four different horses were able to win the Triple Crown — but in the 20 years since then, no horse has been able to do it ... The four who did it between 1941 and 1948 were Whirlaway in 1941 ... Count Fleet in 1943 ... Assault in 1946 ... And, Citation in 1948.

I bet you didn't know ... Just received new Baggy-Baffle slacks and walk shorts. See them now.

Increase in VD Worries State Health Officials

Gonorrhea Cases Have Tripled Since 1960, Agency Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — State Health authorities are worrying about a tripling of the reported cases of gonorrhea in Wisconsin in this decade.

While the Wisconsin record in controlling and eliminating syphilis, the most dangerous of venereal diseases, is better than the national average by a considerable degree, the campaign for the elimination of gonorrhea has taken a turn for the worse, the state division of health reported in its monthly bulletin.

Reported cases of primary and secondary syphilis declined from 90 cases in fiscal 1966, to only 22 cases in 1968, it was said.

More Gonorrhea
 But cases of gonorrhea in the state rose from about 1,300 in 1960 to 3,000 in 1967, and preliminary counts indicate that the total will exceed 4,000 cases in 1968, officials disclosed.

The authorities made it clear that they believe there are many more cases of actual infection than are reported, because of the reluctance of many persons who receive treatment to provide information required to identify others with whom they have been in contact and who may have become infected.

As with syphilis, more than half of the reported cases of gonorrhea are from Milwaukee County, the state agency said, although it explained that one reason for that circumstance is the fact that the only full-time venereal disease clinic in Wisconsin operates there.

Enormous Task
 Said Peter K. Mayville, public health advisor of the state division:

"Clearly, we are confronted with an enormous task in attempting to eradicate or even to check the spread of venereal disease in Wisconsin.

"While scientific advances such as a new laboratory test for gonorrhea and an accurate confirmatory blood test for syphilis will certainly aid in this task, the final solution to the problem of venereal disease will probably be in establishing an effective program of venereal disease education."

Man Killed in Struggle After Burglary Try

Post-Crescent News Service
BREED—One of two men who entered Ken's Service Station, State 32, after closing hours Friday was shot and killed in a struggle for a shotgun.

Killed was Arthur Peters, 31, Keshena, who was shot in the neck by a 16 gauge shotgun and in the chest by a .22 caliber revolver.

Ken Tisot, owner and operator of the station, told police he heard someone force entrance to the front part of the station and saw two men enter. He grabbed a gun and ordered the men into the front office of the station. One man escaped through the front door.

Peters grabbed for Tisot's gun, according to Oconto Sheriff John Fischer, and was shot in the ensuing struggle. Tisot also had a revolver in his pocket and as he tried to pull the pistol it fired, hitting Peters in the chest. He was killed instantly.

Arrest of the second man involved today.

3 goals for making money in the market

 • GOOD DIVIDENDS
 • STEADY INTEREST

Come in and let's talk about them.

Sure, people invest to make money. But there's more to it than that. How you approach investing depends on your objectives and personal circumstances.

Are you looking ahead to the day the children will be going to college? Many people invest in listed common stock to give their education funds a chance to grow.

Gen. Hershey Doesn't Think Policy Is Wrong

Selective Service Director Supports 'Non-Punishment'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service chief Gen. Lewis B. Hershey says antiwar protesters who throw away their draft cards will continue to lose their deferments and be reclassified for immediate induction until the courts order the procedure stopped.

Putting such protesters first in line for the draft "has nothing to do with punishment," the blunt, 75-year-old Hershey said in an interview. "I get riled up when they talk to me about serving your country being punishment."

Hershey spoke after the Supreme Court Monday agreed to hear arguments next fall by two antiwar protesters who charge their reclassification was unconstitutional.

One of the protesters, 22-year-old David Earl Gutknecht of Gaylord, Minn., is appealing a four-year prison sentence for refusing induction after he was reclassified for leaving his draft card on federal building steps during an antiwar demonstration in Minneapolis.

The other, 21-year-old Timothy J. Breen of Westport, Conn., sued against being drafted after he was reclassified for giving his draft card to a Boston clergyman to protest the war.

Top of List

Both gave up their draft cards within weeks of Hershey's October 1967 memorandum authorizing draft boards to take away deferments for such "illegal activities" and declare the violators delinquents, which sends their names to the top of the draft list.

American Civil Liberty Union attorneys for the two protesters say 537 students were stripped of deferments and put on 1-A delinquent status in 1968.

Legal Director Melvin L. Wolf said in New York the ACLU hopes the Gutknecht case "will be the central test of the power of Gen. Hershey to reclassify men as punishment for protesting the war in Vietnam."

Hershey's general counsel, Col. David D. Omer, said he welcomes the Supreme Court decision to hear the two cases and is confident the court will uphold the reclassification policy.

Failure of a potential draftee to carry his draft card is a specific violation of the Military Selective Service Act. The issue before the court is whether a man can lose his deferment and be reclassified to high draft status for the violation.

Hershey's position is that draft deferments for college or any other reason are a "privilege" and they are granted only when it is in the national interest.

Scheme Foiled

Show Doesn't Go On

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Tucson merchant bought a new car. That night he took his wife for her initial drive. As they passed a drive-in theater, the wife saw a movie she'd like to see. "Let's go," said hubby. Then he recalled he hadn't brought any money. His wife didn't have enough for two tickets.

"You drive," the husband said. "I'll hop in the trunk." That's how they drove in. The wife went around to open the trunk, and found hubby had both trunk keys. They left and went to the dealer. Closed. The wife went to a phone booth to check on locksmiths. No time. No money. They drove around town in their beautiful new car, with hubby becoming slightly frantic. Finally they went to a service station. Nothing to it said the attendant. He took a crowbar, pried and jimmied and heaved, and eventually the trunk opened. The repair bill for the trunk was $316. And they didn't get to see the movie.

Frenchmen To Vote in Four Weeks

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou, who served Charles de Gaulle for six years as premier, today announced his candidacy for the presidency his former chief abandoned Monday.

Pompidou, 57, said he was offering his country "the will to maintain a continuity and a necessary stability, and the hope of preparing the future."

Pompidou's announcement had been expected and he already is a favorite. He announced in January that he planned to run in the next presidential election, but it was assumed then it would not be held until De Gaulle's term expired in 1972.

"Pompidou for President!" clubs are springing up around the country, and the former premier has won the endorsement of Social Affairs Minister Maurice Schumann, the UJP, a young Gaullist group, and an organization of left-wing Gaullists.

Alain Poher, whose presidency of the senate made him interim president of the nation, said in a brief radio-television speech he hoped the elections would take place with "scrupulous respect for the law."

"Must Go On"

Meeting parliamentary correspondents before the address, he said he was sorry Gen. De Gaulle had resigned, but "gentlemen, France must go on."

Poher, who campaigned for the defeat of the reform bill on which De Gaulle staked his office, is being mentioned as a possible Centrist candidate to oppose Pompidou. However, the provisional president declined to discuss his plans.

The election must be held between May 18 and June 2, within 20 to 35 days after De Gaulle's resignation. Most speculation settled on June 1 as the date for the first round. Poher said a date probably would be set next week.

If no candidate receives a majority on the first vote, a runoff is held between the two first-round leaders.

Major parties and factions represented in the National Assembly were meeting to prepare for the election. The Socialist Party's leadership was to meet this afternoon, and the Communists met to decide what to do about Socialist disinterest in forming a leftist coalition.

Veteran Socialist leader Guy Mollet indicated he was more interested in a union with Centrist forces and said he would support Poher if the interim president gets into a runoff with Pompidou.

"United Europe"

Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, a leader of the Independence Republicans who have been part of the Gaullist majority, said his ideal candidate would be "an experienced man, not involved in the political clashes between the majority and opposition in recent years, with an eye toward a united Europe, who unites instead of divides and who

U.S. Makes Its Point With Force Off Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officers say quick achievement of two major objectives enabled President Nixon to order withdrawal of more than two-thirds of the 29-ship armada deployed off Korea only last week to protect U.S. reconnaissance flights.

One objective, military experts said, was resumption of Navy EC121 intelligence flights in the area without tempting North Korea with another easy, undefended target like the plane shot down April 15.

The other objective was to demonstrate to North Korean leaders that even though the United States is fighting a war in Vietnam it still can muster considerable military power elsewhere to defend American interests.

Whether military precautions or power politics was the bigger factor in Nixon's decision to rush a big fleet to Korea is a matter of speculation.

But the Pentagon's announcement Monday that 21 of the original 29 vessels in Task Force 71 had left the Korean area suggested the "show of force" aspect was uppermost in the President's mind.

"Made His Point" "He made his point," one Navy admiral said. "Now we're gradually scaling down while still protecting our reconnaissance flights."

The officer viewed the large size of the original task force, which included three attack aircraft carriers, as an indication of the risk Nixon attached to resumption of the EC121 flight.

"North Korea is a belligerent," he commented. "We didn't know what to expect. So we didn't go up there with a little stick; we took a big stick."

After "proving his point," the President had to consider the cost of keeping a sizeable Navy force in the area over any extended period—not only in terms of dollars but also in terms of assignments the Navy had elsewhere.

One carrier, for example, had been pulled from Vietnam waters to join the task force, cutting Navy bombing capability in the war zone by one-third.

Looking for Trouble?

Nixon also may have considered the possibility that a prolonged presence of many U.S. warships near Korea would have been construed as provocative.

"By pulling out most of the ships, Nixon showed he wasn't out looking for trouble," a civilian analyst said.

The Navy still has a considerable presence off Korea—the carrier Enterprise with more than 90 planes and seven destroyers.

While two carriers have left, Pentagon sources report that an additional squadron of F4 Phantom fighters—about 24 planes—has been sent to South Korea to beef up American air strength there.

In the next few weeks, two other F4 Phantom squadrons will be replacing two Air National Guard F100 units winding up temporary tours in June. That will improve the quality of available air resources in South Korea because the F100 is far less versatile than the F4.

The F4s, standard U.S. aircraft for armed escort missions, will accompany lumbering EC121 aircraft on their reconnaissance flights off the Korean coast.

California Quake Of Mini Variety

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For months the prophets of doom had been saying that a devastating earthquake in April would send half of California sliding into the Pacific.

And Monday, April 28, Southern California quaked.

The ground heaved enough to alarm people from the ocean's edge to Arizona.

Huge rocks tumbled down mountainsides. Light fixtures swayed.

San Diegans felt a fairly severe jolt for about 15 seconds. On the top, 24th floor of the U.S. National Bank building, chandeliers danced.

In San Bernardino, east of Los Angeles, it was a long, slow roller.

Books tumbled from shelves in Northridge, in the San Fernando Valley.

Tall buildings seemed to sway for several seconds in Los Angeles.

The epicenter, said the California Institute of Technology, was in the sparsely settled Borrego Desert region near the Salton Sea, 200 feet below sea level.

There were minor rock slides in several mountain ranges.

The quake registered 5.7 on the Richter scale, a method of evaluating earthquakes.

Quakes in that range, most causing little or no damage, are common in California. But this was April.

The big earthquake scare began several months ago when various seers began predicting that April would bring a tremor which would split California in two and precipitate the western half into the Pacific.

Nixon Administration Is 100 Days Old

BY GAYLORD SHAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon Administration marks its 100th day in power today with scores of holdovers from Democratic years still occupying key jobs in the vast federal establishment.

A government-wide Associated Press survey disclosed that while new Republican faces dominate the upper levels in some departments, a clean sweep of Democratic appointees has not materialized.

Some Examples:

—At the Pentagon, fewer than half of the 29 first-line civilian jobs have been filled with fresh GOP talent.

—Seven of the eight top jobs at the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal antipoverty agency, are still filled by holdovers from the Johnson administration.

—Of the 109 slots subject to political appointment in the Agriculture Department's Washington headquarters, the Nixon administration has filled 46—less than half. There are 38 holdovers and 25 vacancies.

Administration spokesmen say Nixon and his cabinet members have concentrated first on selecting appointees for upper echelon posts before moving on to middle-rung jobs. This is reflected in one estimate that only half of the 1,750 "Schedule C" jobs—confidential or political posts usually in the $15,000 to $30,000 salary range—have been filled by the new administration.

Nixon himself says he's more interested in long-term accomplishments than in what's done in the first 100 days of his administration. "I don't count either the days or the hours," he told reporters Sunday. "I never thought in those terms. I plan for the long term."

The Justice Department is an example of the emphasis on filling the highest jobs first. There, only one Johnson holdover is among the eight assistant attorneys general. But the next step down—deputy assistant attorneys general and division heads—practically everyone stayed on.

At the Defense Department, the Republican regime has a strong flavor of the preceding Democratic administrations of Robert S. McNamara and Clark M. Clifford.

One reason is that Nixon and his defense secretary, Melvin R. Laird, have given regular appointments to seven officials continuing on with policy and administrative assignments they held under Democrats.

These include Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering, Comptroller Robert S. Moot, and Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

In addition, Dr. Robert O. Seamans Jr., associate space agency administrator in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, has been named Air Force secretary; John L. McCaskey, former deputy research director, has returned as Air Force undersecretary; and Barry J. Shillito, former assistant Navy secretary, has been promoted to assistant defense secretary.

More Deliberately

Pentagon officials acknowledge that Laird has moved more deliberately than either President Dwight D. Eisenhower or President John F. Kennedy did in the department when they brought a parts switchover to the White House. These authorities say the Vietnam war requires some "continuity and carryover competence" in key jobs.

At the State Department and related agencies, such as the Peace Corps and U.S. Information Agency, Nixon chooses fill most top posts. A small and steadily dwindling number of Democratic holdovers can be found in lower echelon jobs. Among these are Barbara M. Watson, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, and Thomas L. Hughes, director of the Bureau of Intelligence and Research.

The same pattern holds true at the Interior Department. There all of the upper positions are filled by new Republican faces, but about half of the bureau director posts remain vacant.

Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel said recently he was interviewing prospects for these jobs. "We are looking for the best men available," he said. "It doesn't necessarily mean they have to be Republicans, but if they are Republicans it helps."

Some Republicans in Congress and elsewhere have grumbled about the large number of Democrats retained by the Nixon administration. Administration officials respond by noting that Nixon must work with a Democratic-controlled Congress

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negro students, some armed with guns and knives, who have seized the administration building at predominantly Negro Voorhees College in Denmark, S.C., since Monday, invaded another campus building today and caused college officials to shut down the school.

At Belmont, N.C., a small group of Negro students occupied the administration building at Belmont Abbey College, a Roman Catholic school with only about 15 Negroes enrolled. A police official said it was not known if they were armed and police were asked to stand by.

Between 150 and 200 young Negroes continued a peaceful sit-in at a Michigan State University cafeteria.

About 25 Negro students ended a sit-in at the administrative offices of St. Louis University, when officials met most of their demands.

College Closed

City College of New York was closed indefinitely and sit-ins continued at two other branches of the City University.

At Harvard University students participating in a referendum voted 3,222 to 945 not to resume a strike of classes.

The New York State assembly, meeting in Albany, passed and sent to the senate a bill to ban guns from college campuses. The bill, backed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, would allow seven-year jail terms for armed students convicted of unlawfully occupying buildings on campus.

The legislation was provoked by an armed sit-in by Negro students at Cornell University last week. The 14,000-student Ithaca campus has now returned to a relatively normal classroom routine.

At Voorhees, located in Denmark about 20 miles southwest of Orangeburg, college president Dr. John F. Potts said there would be no precipitous action "because we do not want anyone to get hurt."

The militant students seized the building about noon Monday and hung out a sign declaring it "Malcolm X University." They refused to send out a delegation to discuss their grievances with school officials.

One student who refused to identify himself said the protesters were armed "for the purpose of self defense." Their demands including a minimum $1.60 an hour wage for all non-academic workers, establishment of a black studies program and amnesty for the protesters.

The school has about 725 students and is supported by the Episcopal Church.

In East Lansing, Mich., the MSU sit-ins were protesting the firing of a black university employee and demanding that more blacks be hired in campus dormitories.

Police Harassment

They began the sit-in Monday afternoon and threatened to remain until Thursday. They called for a public hearing to discuss their complaints.

The St. Louis sit-in ended when school officials agreed to investigate complaints of alleged harassment by campus police, to grant amnesty to the protesters, to hire Negro supervisory maintenance personnel, increase black oriented courses and create an office of black student affairs.

Danger Seen For Sirhan in San Quentin

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A California prison official says there have been rumors that an attempt would be made on the life of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, assassin of Robert F. Kennedy, if he goes to San Quentin prison.

"They were nothing you could put your fingers on or could validate," Lawrence Wilson, state deputy corrections director, said Monday. "Just the institutional rumors that there could be some reprisals taken."

Meanwhile, a bill to allow the California Corrections Department to send Sirhan to the medical facility at Vacaville died in the state legislature's criminal procedure committee Monday for lack of votes.

Hearing Scheduled

Sirhan was convicted of first degree murder and condemned to death by the jury Wednesday. May 21 has been set as a hearing date for possible motions and formal sentencing by the judge.

Among those attending the committee hearing Monday was Lynn Compton, chief deputy district attorney for Los Angeles County and one of Sirhan's prosecutors.

"It's inescapable that he is different from most prisoners," Compton said following the hearing. "I think there is a greater threat on his personal safety than on the average prisoner you get. This is a unique and special kind of case."

Wilson said Sirhan would be held in a "no man's land" at San Quentin with empty cells on both sides. His area will be separated by a screen from the rest of the sixth floor death row.

Officials said Sirhan still could be housed at Vacaville, built in 1955, if doctors should find he needs special medical or psychiatric care not available at San Quentin, a state prison since the 1850s. The gas chamber is at San Quentin.

Citizens Push Tax Reform To Aid Vast Middle Class

By DENNIS J. SORENSEN
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Taxes and weather, it is said, have this in common: everybody talks about them, but nobody does anything about them.

"Well that's just not true," says James P. Behling, co-founder of a "unique uprising" that may touch middle-income taxpayers throughout the country.

"They can seed the clouds, now, and make it rain, and I think we can do something about unfair taxes."

Behling's group—Citizens for Tax Reform—has tried to do something about taxes and Behling believes it has been, at least in part, successful.

"The middle class for years has been afraid to rock the boat," said Behling, 27, who lives in the North Shore suburb of Whitefish Bay. "But college students and minority groups have shown us that confrontation is necessary if you're going to get results."

"We realize that middle-income people are not often willing to demonstrate, but we think there are enough people who are not afraid to get involved," Behling said. His organization boasts 300 paid members, all earning between $7,000 and $25,000 a year.

Behling and the group's other co-founder, Russell K. Berg, 28, who lives in another North Shore suburb, Fox Point, led a march to the Federal Building in Milwaukee on April 12. There, neatly-dressed demonstrators, many of them in business suits, held a quiet protest and taped their list of demands to a glass door at the Internal Revenue Service office.

"Two motorcycle policemen who escorted our march told us it was the nicest demonstration they'd ever had," Behling said.

On April 15—tax deadline day—the group picketed at the post office as last-minute filers dropped off their returns just before midnight. The reform group passed out literature.

"I had a couple of Lincoln and Cadillacs shove the pamphlet back in my face," Behling said. "Generally, though, everyone liked us."

Feeling Pressure
Although the Joint Finance Committee of the Wisconsin Legislature has been trimming the governor's proposed budget drastically, Behling feels his group can take no credit for this resistance to further government spending on the state level.

"The men in Madison are feeling some pressure," Behling said, "but I don't think it's from us. Pushing too many reforms is like pushing too many carts. In part, successful."

Behling said he wants his tax reform movement to go nationwide and he, therefore, needs a popular base.

"We must attack problems common to everybody, everywhere," Behling said. "We have taken a stand on federal taxes, not state or local taxes. And, we don't advocate less revenue or fewer taxes, just a different proportional collection."

Behling's group, "which isn't incorporated yet because we can't afford it," lists four demands:

1. Raise the $600 per dependent exemption to $1,200.
2. Raise the 10 per cent or $1,000 standard deduction to 15 per cent or $2,000.
3. Allow as deductions the money parents spend to educate their children.
4. Plug tax loopholes enabling wealthy persons to avoid paying anything.

"The first two points need changing," Behling said. "Because they were instituted way back when a buck was a buck—not 30 cents like it is today. As for the third point, college is an investment in the nation's future, and with the rising costs of education, middle-income parents need a break."

Behling said implementation of the group's fourth demand would restore to the government any more revenue it might lose through meeting the first three demands.

"We have never advocated civil disobedience or refusal to pay taxes," Behling said, "and we don't knock a rich person for taking advantage of the loopholes the government is stupid enough to allow him. We'd do the same thing. We also reject the arguments of those groups who want to repeal income taxes, but do not have suggestions for alternatives. Where is the government going to get the money for important programs if there are no taxes?"

Bulk of Taxes
"What we are fighting for is tax relief for middle-income people."

ple who pay the bulk of the taxes in this country. We need relief from paying an unfair share."

Behling feels his group and others like it are responsible for reforms currently under discussion in Washington. "even though these reforms don't do anything for the middle-income taxpayer."

"Most of the new reforms being discussed in Washington are directed toward relief of the poor and the closing of a few—very few—loopholes enjoyed by the rich," Behling said. "That's fine agency is going to do the creative work on the ad for free."

Behling's group is stressing the "theory of confrontation." He feels the days of writing your congressman have passed.

"We've been on television and radio and we are trying to get enough money for a quarter-page ad in a Washington news-

city simultaneous demonstration, if all goes well.

The group also plans to send a 100-foot telegram to Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee. Some 500 persons already have signed up and paid their 25 cents for the telegram, Behling says.

Community support has been overwhelming. "An ad agency in Milwaukee is going to place the newspaper for us and forgo its usual 15 per cent commission. Another agency is going to do the creative work on the ad for free."

Behling said his group's main problem right now is trying to keep people from forgetting about taxes until tax time next year. "We want to remind people that we are keeping up the pressure," Behling said.

"Some people think it's funny that persons who pay their bills and pay their rent and dress decently are out demonstrating with placards and pamphlets. But it's no joke," Behling said. "We want tax reform, we need it and we are going to get it. And I'm sure we can do it through peaceful means."

city simultaneous demonstration, if all goes well.

"We even got a letter from an attorney in Hot Springs, Ark., wanting to know how he can help us or start a similar organization there," Behling said. That's great. That's Wilbur Mills country.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Behling said his group's main problem right now is trying to keep people from forgetting about taxes until tax time next year.

"We want to remind people that we are keeping up the pressure," Behling said. "Some people think it's funny that persons who pay their bills and pay their rent and dress decently are out demonstrating with placards and pamphlets. But it's no joke," Behling said. ## 6,000 Attend 'Ramp' Festival

COSBY, Tenn. (AP) — Time was when the hill folks of East Tennessee considered the ramp—an odiferous member of the lily family which looks like an onion but smells worse—an excellent remedy for winter sluggishness.

Nowadays, it's mostly an excuse to get together for a smelly good time at the Ramp Festival on Kineauvasta Hill, which is the prairie chicken where what an estimated 6,000 persons did Sunday.

The bill of fare was barbecued chicken and beef, sassafras tea, cornbread and ramps — fired, boiled or raw, munched while listening to country music by a pair of Grand Ole Opry performers, Archie Campbell and Lorene Mann.

Among those on hand were

Sen. Howard H. Baker and Rep. James Quillen, both Tennessee Republicans.

Remains of Chicken Tell Tale of Crash

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — The Navy says a prairie chicken probably caused the crash of a multimillion-dollar A6A Intruder jet bomber at the Olathe Naval Air Station April 19.

Investigators said remains of the prairie chicken were found in a jet engine after the plane faltered on take-off, flipped over and landed in mud at the end of the runway.

Investigators believe the bird caused loss of power. The crewmen, Lt. Elfrid M. Jamison, and Lt. Cmdr. Kermit Jamison, were rescued by station personnel.

Traffic Fatalities Jump Despite Driver Courses

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Although 50 per cent of eligible high school students take driving courses now compared to 25 per cent some 10 years ago, the rate of traffic deaths in that decade increased from 24 to 28 per 100,000 people.

The barnacle may hold one key to reducing unsightly tooth cavities in the future. Dentists hope that if they can duplicate the powerful cement these tiny creatures secrete to fix themselves to vessels it will enable them to cut down the size of fillings, which now have to be drilled so that they lock mechanically.

Parents still can't choose the sex of their children ahead of time, but they now can find out six months before birth whether a child will be a boy or a girl. A test devised by a University of South California obstetrics professor enables sex to be determined this far in advance. It entails the taking of fluid samples from the fetal envelope.

Large Wardrobe
You think your wife buys too many clothes? Queen Elizabeth I of England, who was as homesick as two barn doors, kept 1,000 dresses in her wardrobe. But probably like every other dame she complained, "I don't have a thing I can wear."

Looking for a new worry? How about bats? In the last 15 years, according to National Geographic Society, at least 60 people are thought to have contracted rabies from bat bites. Vampire bats in South America kill a million cattle a year by infecting them with this disease. But a single vampire bat won't drain you dry. Each takes only about one to two ounces of blood from its victim.

Booze Habit
Some doctors are worried that teen-agers too young to buy liquor legally may acquire the booze habit by buying cough syrups from supermarkets. They point out that some of these medications contain up to 25 per cent alcohol.

Presidential cook: Thomas Jefferson, a genius in many fields, also knew his way around a kitchen. He wrote this advice to fishermen on how to tell when a fish is done: "If the bone sticks to the flesh, or the flesh to the bone, it is not done. By the same rule, if quite loose and the flesh drops off the bone, it is overdone. But if a knife parts the flesh from the bone easily, the fish is done."

Worth remembering: "Forbidden fruit is responsible for many a bad jam."

Ireland in 1447 a parliament enacted a law that no man—unless he wanted to be taken for an Englishman—should have a beard above his mouth.

Useful Buffalo
Thanks to increasing buffalo herds, bison steaks again are appearing on some restaurant menus. To the American Indian the buffalo was an all-purpose critter. In addition to the meat, he made blankets, tepees and clothing from the hide, spoons and ladles from the horns, glue from boiled hooves. The ribs were used for sled runners, the tails for fly swatters and pony whips.

Knowledge nuggets: The world has nearly a hundred caracaras higher than Niagara Falls. An African lion needs nearly three-quarters of an antelope a week to feel up to snuff. By using airborne infrared detectors forest rangers can now detect from 20,000 feet a ground blaze only one foot wide. Some psychiatrists believe that the eldest child in a large family is least likely to have a happy marriage when he matures.

It was Mark Twain who observed, "Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it."

Curricula Taught In Law Schools Is Criticized by Nader

MADISON (AP) — Ralph Nader, lawyer, lobbyist and car safety exponent, says law schools are turning out students interested in corporations, not people.

"The growing dissent and protesting we see emerging now are an expression of the failure of the legal profession," he said in a talk Saturday night at the annual University of Wisconsin law school banquet.

"The past generation of the legal profession," Nader said, "sat presiding with equanimity on cases of gross misconduct on the part of the established political and corporate structures. But the basis of the law profession is the law firm; and the curriculum taught to the law schools is faithful to corporate law practice. That's a pretty sorry state of affairs."

Wilkins Critical of Anti-Poverty Program

BOSTON (AP) — Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says, "The poverty program needs a higher priority than the Nixon administration has given it."

Speaking at a meeting Sunday in the Old South Church, Wilkins said: "The results of the present administration so far have been confusion. We do not know what the civil rights."

Stockbridge Vote Denies Thiel School Detachment

Action by Board Was Unanimous

STOCKBRIDGE — A petition to detach a 50-acre parcel from the Stockbridge school district and attach it to Chilton, has been unanimously denied by the board of education here.

The Chilton school board recently unanimously agreed to accept the territory.

Because the property involved, owned by Melvin Thiel, route 3, Chilton, is contiguous to both districts, both district boards must agree by majority vote to the transfer.

Stockbridge officials in their denial stated they were opposed to more detachments, which would break up their district peace-meal fashion. Electors, in an advisory vote last week voted to keep the district intact. About $400 in school taxes is involved in the parcel.

The Thiels, who had previously sent a high school student to Chilton on a tuition basis, were seeking the detachment from Stockbridge to avoid paying tuition for another child who will be a freshman next fall. Their petition last year, when other boarderline property owners, who were paying tuition to Chilton were released, was denied, because at the time they did not have a tuition student. They were told their situation would be reviewed again this year.

In other action teacher contracts were signed for all high school and elementary faculty members with the exception of Otto Meyer, who is retiring and high school English teacher, Ann Binsfeld and industrial arts and agriculture instructor, Leon Wolfe.

Action on implementing a capstone business education course in the high school costing $15,000 with 50 per cent to be paid from federal funds was set aside until next month when it is expected school officials will know if the federal grant will be available.

The course was planned for this school year, but could not be included in the curriculum due to inability to engage a teacher when the business education teacher was granted a leave of absence due to illness.

Duwane Kalies, Left, an eighth grader at Brillion Public School, received first place in the Optimist Club Oratorical Contest and will compete in zone competition today at Sheboygan. Topic of his original presentation is "Respect for Law—Cornerstone of Citizenship". Allen Snyder, Brillion Optimist Club president, congratulates the young orator and presents him with a transistor radio.

Strike Delays Project

No Completion Date for Overpass

The district engineer for the State Highway Department said Monday he had no idea when the strike-plagued College Avenue and U.S. 41 overpass project will be completed.

"It should have been done last fall with just some minor work left this spring," declared Roy Empey, Green Bay.

Picketing Stepped Up

Empey was questioned about the progress of the project as striking Teamsters and Operating Engineers stepped up picketing against Courtney and Plummer, the major contractor, at the jobsite.

Since the middle of last week, the project has all but been shut down with most members of other unions on the job honoring the picketing, it was reported.

Courtney and Plummer is a member of the Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association, which has been struck by the Teamsters and Operating Engineers since July 29, 1968. It is the longest strike — involving ready mix and sand-gravel firms — in the Fox Cities history.

Work Stoppages

Several of the sub-contractors were reportedly complaining today to the unions over the latest in a series of work stoppages at jobsites.

Empey said he was holding a conference with his staff people this morning to discuss "trouble spots" in the district.

"We are so far away from completing the overpass project that we're not even within shouting distance," Empey said.

He indicated there were no apparent immediate solutions to the problem.

In the meantime, a mediator for the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) is planning to call another meeting of union and management negotiators in the near future to make another attempt at a settlement.

The strike was triggered by a dispute over a new contract.

Freshman Involved

Police Check Alleged Marijuana Sale at LU

Appleton detectives Monday confirmed they are investigating the reported sale of marijuana in a Lawrence University freshman's room at Brokaw Hall.

A front page story last Friday in the university newspaper, The Lawrentian, stated that a freshman man living in the all-freshman dormitory, was charged last Tuesday by Dean of Men Kenneth R. Venderbush with permitting the room to be used for "the sale of an unprecedented quantity of marijuana."

Sold in Room

The paper stated that the unnamed student faces possible dismissal from the university as a minimal penalty after adjudication by either Venderbush or the school's student faculty judicial board.

The dean's office disciplinary charge to the student read as follows, according to the paper: "You are charged with a violation of our present policy on narcotics and hallucinogens by selling LSD . . . specifically that you allowed your room in Brokaw Hall to be used for the sale of considerable quantities of marijuana."

Venderbush told The Post-Crescent that students notified him of the incident last week. He notified police, who said today they are continuing their investigation. A detective said that no criminal charges are contemplated as yet.

Dependency on Drugs Will be Topic of Study

Dr. D. A. Treffert, Winnebago State, Is on Committee

MADISON — A special committee will study the problems of drug dependency in Wisconsin for the guidance of the State Department of Health and Social Services.

The formation of the committee, consisting of persons with professional experience in several relevant fields, has been approved by the policy-making board of the department after a recommendation from Wilbur J. Schmidt, department secretary. Finding will be reported within a year.

He said various officials have inquired about the role of his agency in handling problems of drug abuse and addiction, including the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice.

Professional Groups

Schmidt suggested that council director Clark E. Lovrein serve as chairman of the study committee, and the committee is expected to ratify the suggestion at its organizational meeting soon.

The Committee members have been drawn from the field of professional pharmacy, law enforcement, health workers familiar with the scope of the federal and state narcotics acts, and medical experts.

Among the members will be A. Rowland Todd of the Wisconsin Welfare Council, who is chairman of an interagency committee on alcoholism and drugs, and Dr. D. A. Treffert, superintendent of Winnebago State Hospital at Winnebago who heads the State Medical Society Committee on alcoholism and addictions.

Refurbishing Waupaca High To be Considered by Board

WAUPACA — The board of as well as provided more adequate space.

The board will be taken on a tour of the central campus. The board's proposal for a new high school was turned down on April 1 when the district residents voted down a referendum for a $2.9 million bond issue.

Teacher Contracts

Two other important items will be considered on Thursday's agenda, the approval of brighten up the central campus 1969-70 teacher contracts and proposals by a special procedures committee delegated to set up the method and timetable for choosing a new administrator.

The negotiating team reached agreement last week on a new teacher contract which will give an average annual pay increase of $1,215 and will raise taxes within the district 2 mills.

Under terms of the new contract, which has been tentatively approved by members of the Waupaca Educational Association, representing the teachers, the beginning salaries for teachers with bachelors degrees will be $6,600 and with masters degrees, $7,000.

Mrs. Fay Fonstad and Mrs. Betty Spiegler were appointed by president Ray Martin to set up the method of selecting a new administrator to replace Supt. George Hendrickson who will retire at the close of the 1969-70 school year.

Republicans Present a United Front at Parley

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW HOLSTEIN — Repeatedly reminded to preserve their unity, Sixth District Republicans apparently took the advice to heart here Monday as they changed chairmen and endorsed several stiffly conservative resolutions with hardly a breath of dissent or discussion.

The program will be conducted in the Iola-Scandinavia, Manawa, Marion, Clintonville, New London, Weyauwega and Waupaca school districts.

Miss Elizabeth Suliver, hearing consultant from the Bureau of Handicapped Children, instructed mothers in the use of the audiometer last week at New London, Clintonville and Waupaca.

Those children who have a significant hearing loss, detected in the screening, will be examined by an otologist when the "otomobile" visits each district the last week in May.

Towns Fight Annexations

Menasha, Harrison To Try to Overturn Action by Appleton

The towns of Menasha and Harrison will go to court in June in an attempt to overturn Appleton's annexation of 120 acres of southside property in 1967.

A pre-trial conference was held at Chilton last week involving legal counsel for the city and towns.

Because both towns instituted the action shortly after the annexation took effect, the cases have been consolidated.

The annexation, commonly referred to as the Roeland Annexation, consisted mostly of property in Harrison, including a power substation of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., and a small area in the Town of Menasha.

Since the annexation, the city has received the utility tax which formerly went to the town. It amounted to about $12,000 in 1968.

Waupaca Enters 11 in State Music Test at Oshkosh

WAUPACA — Eleven high school musicians here will compete at the state music contest Saturday at Oshkosh State University.

The music department is entering: Mindi Godfrey, a French horn solo; Don Harman, baritone horn solo; Jackie Schuelke, alto solo; Karen Miller, alto solo; Dale Schroeder, bass solo; David Wood and Gary Nichol, drum duo; and Sara Schuler, Kathy Rasmussen, Janel Grant and Lile Campbell in a flute quartet.

In mid-April the Waupaca High School music department earned 21 firsts, 21 seconds and 6 thirds when 52 musicians played at the Tri-County solo-ensemble music contest in Bowler.

Outagamie County Authorities Sunday conducted a second unsuccessful search of the government canal near S. Oneida Street for a 20 gauge shotgun believed to have been used in the unsolved slaying Jan. 20, 1968, of Martin Jansen, 34, at Cloud Buick Co., Inc., where he was a night janitor. The canal was drained for the day-long search which yielded only rusty bicycles and assorted junk. A similar hunt was held last spring after authorities received information the murder weapon might be in the canal.

Teachers Have One More Day To Sign Pact

Kimberly Schools Will Start Seeking Replacement Faculty

KIMBERLY — Wednesday is the deadline for village teachers to return contracts. Recruitment for new teachers to replace those who have not returned their contracts will begin Thursday.

The decision to notify the teachers of this arrangement was made Monday by the Kimberly Board of Education.

At the present time, 103 of the 123 teaching contracts are outstanding.

Differences in base pay, salary credit for education beyond the bachelors degree and extra-curricular pay lie between settlement by the Kimberly Education Association (KEA) and the board of education.

Board Offer

The board has offered a base pay of $6,700 for beginning teachers with a bachelors degree. The KEA feels this is low compared to surrounding communities.

KEA members had indicated a proposal to submit letters of intent to the board of lieu of returning signed contracts for the coming year but the proposal was rejected by the board.

Such letters, which had been accepted elsewhere by other boards, permit administrators to know what teachers plan to return, the KEA has stated.

President De Gaulle Resigns

There may be an immediate temptation for Americans to gloat over the downfall of President Charles de Gaulle of France. For it was Le Grand Charlie's consummate egotism which finally brought an end to his ten-year reign. Against all the advice of his intimate associates, he once again put his political future on the line in support of a package of relatively unimportant constitutional amendments. And this time French voters turned against his take-it or leave-it proposition. The least that can be said of De Gaulle today is that he made good on his word. The results had hardly been tabulated when he announced that he was stepping down as president effective at noon Monday.

This is a most curious end to the first French government since Napoleon which had been able to introduce some stability into French political affairs. When he agreed to accept the premiership in 1958 following 12 years of retirement, the French nation had been practically brought to its knees as government after government failed to win majority support of the fragmented French political parties.

De Gaulle immediately drafted a new constitution to bring some stability to the political situation, and after it was approved overwhelmingly by the French people De Gaulle was elected president.

Subsequently, however, De Gaulle adopted the tactic of threatening to resign every time he went back to the voters for further amendments to that constitution. On four occasions he won such votes of confidence, but each time by smaller margins. And this time he apparently cried wolf once too often.

In effect De Gaulle had substituted votes of confidence from the electorate for votes of confidence from parliament to keep his government in office. His egotism persuaded him to do so, and his egotism now has brought his downfall.

Many questions are raised and none answered in the vacuum which his resignation leaves. President Nixon on his trip to Europe soon after his inauguration took special pains to reestablish cordial relations with De Gaulle, and the French president planned to visit this country in the near future. What effect then will his departure have on relations with the United States?

Will a new French government take another look at blocking British membership in the Common Market, or at France's virtual withdrawal from NATO? What change if any in French attitudes toward West Germany and Soviet Russia may result?

The most plausible successor to De Gaulle appears to be former premier Georges Pompidou, the man who pulled De Gaulle's chestnuts out of the fire a year ago when his regime almost fell in the midst of student and worker strikes. In a typical De Gaulle move, he subsequently dropped Pompidou from his government, and Pompidou's popularity with a segment of French voters has been rising since.

But the likelihood is that in the ten-year period the DeGaulle philosophy of an independent France has become deeply imbedded in the French government and in French politics. A new government may be just as independent, but it may be less egotistical.

the status quo and crony town politics. It would make it optional for each county to appoint a county assessor coordinator to work with existing part-time local assessors.

Thus, Conradt would spurn the recommendations of the Tarr Committee and other blue ribbon committees before it, and perpetuate the type of part-time assessing now responsible for the inequities which exist in many local government assessment setups.

There can be no compromise to the county-wide assessment procedure recommended by the Tarr Committee because it calls for fair, uniform assessing throughout the state. It is hoped Assemblyman Conradt's colleagues thoroughly scrutinize his loophole amendment and kill it in committee. It's merely a matter of knowing right from wrong.

Jordan and Egypt and perhaps of Saudi Arabia and Israel probably do want the current state of affairs to end peacefully and yet with honor, the increasingly independent Arab guerrillas do not. Their belligerence has already toppled one moderate government — that of Lebanon — and neither King Hussein nor President Nasser dares speak out too openly against them.

The other doubtful factor is the position of the Soviet Union. Russia's fleet has continued to grow in the Mediterranean and obviously the Russians intend to maintain their influence among the Arab nations. But right now when Russia is having more difficulties with China, when some Communist nations like Yugoslavia and Romania are defying it and when Soviet leaders simply do not know what the hard-nosed North Koreans are going to do next, it would seem that Russia would opt for peace in the Middle East. Russian leaders have expressed concern over the fighting even though they have continued to back the point of view of the Arab governments, if not the guerrillas.

Soviet and American officials have had ten meetings on trying to work out a declaration of intent to be submitted to Israel, Jordan and Egypt but so far have come up with nothing substantial to break the deadlock. It is urgent that they do so before events replace diplomacy.

Urgency in the Middle East

With every shot fired across the Jordan, Israel and the Arab nations come closer to an all out resumption of hostilities. In fact United Nations Secretary General U Thant says that "a virtual state of active war" exists and that the cease-fire ordered almost two years ago by the Security Council "has become almost totally ineffective."

It is essential that Big Four meetings get to substantive discussions as soon as possible even though the government of Israel opposes such meetings and has already announced it will not necessarily abide by any conclusions. Israel leaders continue to hold out for face-to-face talks with Arab leaders while the latter have only slightly withdrawn from their original stand that Israeli troops must withdraw from conquered territories before such talks begin.

The Middle East situation is somewhat similar to those in both Vietnam and Korea in that it is difficult to determine whether both sides really want peace. The North Vietnamese may well have decided that the United States is going to pull out of South Vietnam so that they really don't have to make many concessions in the Paris talks or secret discussions. The belligerent North Koreans may also believe that this is a good time to harass both American and South Korean forces because of the war weariness of much of the world. And in the Middle East, while the official governments of

Methodist Preachers and Politics

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 22, 1869.

Why I am a Methodist preacher in this State are decided political questions.

We think we can solve that conundrum.

Just about the proportion of the Methodist clergy are the poorest paid in the land. A large portion of the Methodist lay members appear to act upon the principle that it is a religious duty to cheat or starve a pastor.

Hence in the hope of obtaining a little "outside support" the pastor must dabble largely, if not learnedly, in partisan politics.

Kraft Writes

Administration Moves Slowly on Inflation; Defense Budget Escapes

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The latest surge in the price index confirms the impression that the country is suffering from an inflation of expectations. As for baiting that trend of inflation, the gradual cooling-off approach adopted by the Nixon administration seems about right.

But within that framework, at least one feature of this Administration policy seems not at all right. The lax attitude shown toward defense spending is wholly out of keeping with the Administration's generally sensible approach to the difficult problem of an inflation of expectations.

That kind of inflation is distinct from two more familiar kinds of inflation. There is the scarcity of inflation, as in World War II, when shortages of consumer goods caused prices to be bid up enormously. There is a cost-push inflation, as in the latter days of the Eisenhower administration, when strongly-placed firms and unions raised prices and wages while demand stood still.

In contrast, what is going on now is a buying spree rooted in the expectation of permanent prosperity and prices that go up, and up and up. Consumers and businessmen are all spending like crazy now on the assumption that it will cost more later.

This condition is abundantly documented in the bunch of price statistics released by the government last week. On the consumer side, the biggest rise is in home-ownership costs — which is a polite way of saying mortgage rates. Rather than paying more later, people are dipping into savings in order to buy now even though mortgage rates are at 8 per cent and taxes have been increased through the 10 per cent surtax.

On the wholesale price side, the biggest rise came in machinery, metals, and lumber. This increase reflects the rise in business expenditures, estimated at about 14 per cent over last year. In other words, even though they are operating well below capacity and paying more taxes, businessmen are continuing to expand because of the expectation of still further inflation to come.

The roots of these inflationary expectations lie in the past eight years of unbroken prosperity and steadily rising prices. Businessmen and consumers are projecting the past into the future. And that makes arresting an inflation of expectations very tricky.

On the one hand, there is no automatic and immediate response to tax rises and to hikes in interest charges. People and firms can go right on buying because their outlook about the future has not been altered.

On the other hand, a change in the outlook could come in a rush at any time. That could mean a serious fall in demand, and a recession.

APPLY BRAKES SLOWLY

In this situation it makes sense to apply brakes gradually, to wear down purchasing power a little bit at a time until enough people get the message and the inflationary push slowly loses its force. And to a large extent that has been the Administration's tactic.

Thus last week the administration moved to repeal the 7 per cent tax credit for business investment. Before that it had cut the federal budget. Before that it had jollied the Federal Reserve Board into raising interest rates to record highs. And before that it had indicated that the 10 per cent surtax on income tax would be continued — at least until next January when it may, under the latest proposals, be cut in half.

In time these measures are almost sure to take their toll. Inflationary pressures should gradually slack off. But because the Administration has been so adept at maneuvering most of the anti-inflationary levers, the case of the defense budget sticks out.

This year, non-Vietnam defense spending will go up by close to $6 billion. The defense share of the budgetary cut made by the Nixon administration was only a quarter of the total — as against about half of the total cut made by the Johnson administration last fall.

The fact is that until it begins to go after defense spending seriously the Nixon administration can fairly be accused, in the words of Henry Reuss, a Democratic Congressman from Wisconsin, of waging "a phony war on inflation." More serious still, unless more resolve is shown on cutting defense spending, it is hard to see where the Administration will get the money required to finance obviously necessary programs to reform the welfare program and share tax revenues with the states, which are now being promised

Wisconsin Report

Legislature Could Save Much Time on Handling Memorials

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — For those unfortunate whose jobs require them to attend the legislature daily, undoubtedly the most wearying routine in the proceedings is the time wasted daily on the complimentary citations for persons and organizations ranging from the home town beauty queen to the Green Bay Packers upon their repeated championship victories.

From those slaves in the galleries — notably reporters and lobbyists — Assemblyman Stanley York of River Falls deserves a respectful tip of the hat for his proposition to pack such citations into a weekly bundle that would be prepared by the clerk of each house, voted on en masse, and transmitted to the second house, where the same simplified procedure would prevail.

There would be no dreary reading. The elaborately printed citations would go out as they did before, and their recipients probably won't know that they were adopted perfunctorily. The ladies' sewing circle and the high school debating team and the local his work. Once, indeed, the State Senate adjourned "in honor of," as the ponderous phrasing goes, his wedding anniversary and that day's journal with the entry duly recorded was saved for framing. But that was a long time ago, indeed.

If there is a runner-up in the way of futile but persistent exercises in the legislature, it is the business of writing "memorials" in the archaic phrase, to the U. S. Congress of the President, or federal government agencies, advising them of the wishes of the men who sit in distant Madison about national government policy or the lack thereof.

The memorial typically asks Congress to do something, is usually designed to obtain favorable public notice for its author, is often a means of a publicity duel between partisan points of view, and, almost without exception, is quite ineffectual. Yet the practice continues, year after year.

In this reporter's adult and working life-time perhaps 30 to 40 men have sat in Wisconsin seats in the Congress. But there is no recollection that any of them ever acted according to instructions or requests sent by the Wisconsin legislature. The chances are overwhelming that such messages stop at the first clerical desk in Washington.

AND SO TO WORK

Perhaps after some decades of faithful attendance upon the legislature, this reporter has become something of a curmudgeon with respect to such meaningless gestures.

There is the business of interrupting the proceedings on the floor of either house, however solemn the debate, however solemn the issue heading for a roll call, for the purpose of permitting a member to arise to introduce "my good friend in the west gallery." Whereupon there is a little applause, a note in the journal, and the man who was on his feet prepared to contribute something to the discussion recovers his train of thought as best he can.

These are the bread and butter techniques of the budding politician that won't be easily surrendered. Indeed, they may never be surrendered, for what may appear to be demeaning puffery on one day, will become a compulsory exercise for the critical seatmate tomorrow.

A bow to Assemblyman York for his imagination in devising a means for ridding the system of one nuisance in a painless way.

Strictly Personal

Many Problems Today Caused by Population

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The problem of "population" is far more complex than we ordinarily assume. It is not merely a matter of having too many people to feed or house properly — it is a matter of social needs outrunning personal supplies.

Take one example, not commonly considered as being part of the population problem — the dissatisfaction in the nation's colleges and universities.

Students in the large universities feel "depersonalized" — that is, there are so many of them that none feels like an individual, or feels that he is getting the training and direction he needs on a personal basis. Much of the campus disaffection springs from this sense of being mass-processed through the machinery of college.

Now the obvious answer would be, say, to break down a college of 30,000 students into 10 units of 3,000 each. But this would not be much of an answer, because of the scarcity of professional talent relative to the booming demand for a college education today. There never have been enough good teachers; now there are not even enough above-average ones.

If you turn the university into 10 smaller, individualized colleges, how do you dispose and disperse the teachers from the university? They can only be in one place at once, so that the demand for more college teachers would rise at an exponential rate impossible to satisfy.

The same is happening with medical care in our society. As the standard of living goes up, and as more people are able to avail themselves of medical services, there is an increasing gap between the number of doctors and the numbers of people demanding them. Thus, the same complaints about the "mechanization" of the doctor-patient relationship as about the student-professor relationship.

A large change in a number always means a change in scale. A policeman in a city has a far different role from a policeman in a village; and it is the increasing density of the urban complex that has brought "crime in the streets" to its present peak, rather than any "moral" or "governmental" laxness.

Through technology, we may find means of feeding and clothing an immense world population. But the chief problem will be adapting our social mechanisms to the peripheral needs of all these people, which grow in a geometric ratio while their mere numbers increase only arithmetically.

India's Trains Are Scorned by Tourists

NEW DELHI (AP) — Many tourists don't like to come to India because it takes so long to make a reservation on Indian trains, according to the Travel Agents Association of India.

Another reason for their skipping India, the association said, is the publicity given to the increasing number of rail accidents in India.

Computer Program Success
Education for Inmates Offered

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A grammar industry. man with an education in basic mathematics may be sentenced ferson City is in its fifth year of to the Missouri Department of teaching computer program. price.” Candidates for this program are tested before being admit- ted. Those accepted show an ap- titude for programming—a prof- iciency in basic mathematics and a demonstrated ability to solve problems by logical thought processes. Missouri's Department of Cor- rections puts a lot of stock in its educational processes. Says Tom Hageman, director, division of inmate education: “Most prisoners are obviously failures—in crime as well as tinal failure.” Last year the department spent $297,083 for education of mentary school. 176 in high school, and 76 in vocational training classes. Inmates attend school half the day and perform various work details the other half. Classes are limited to about a dozen inmates and they are al- lowed to set their own pace. It is not unusual to see one student studying Louis Nizer's “A Case of Libel” while another learns to pronounce “ma-chine.” Fred T. Wilkinson, depart- ment director, points to a lack of motivation as one of the big- gest factors in a life of crime, especially among the young. In 1968 more than 60 per cent of criminal offenders sentenced to the prison were between the ages of 17 and 25. Wilkinson says these youthful offenders were never encour- aged to becoming anything or do anything with their lives.

Determination Only Way to Stop Smoking

RY SYLVIA PORTER
A three-day supply of a new product which is supposed to help you stop smoking costs close to $3 a package at my local drugstore. If you complete the entire four-week program recommended in the directions, your total investment might add up to $20 or more.

Porter

This is a big bargain if you manage to quit smoking, of course. A three-pack-a-day addict can in these days of soaring cigarette taxes spend as much as $450 a year to support his habit — and he can add hundreds of dollars more to this if his wife chain-smokes too. Also, today's non-smoker is eligible for non-smoker life insurance at considerable savings in premiums. But the estimate is that out of the 6-7 million adult U.S. smokers who try to stop smoking each year, only about one in four succeeds. Would-be non-smokers are now spending tens of millions of dollars to buy the products of today's "Stop-Smoking Industry" — ranging from pills to Chiclets, lozenges, "pacifiers," stop-smoking books, etc. 56 Per Cent Try

Are you among the 56 per cent of U.S. smokers who, according to the U.S. Public Health Service, have made at least one serious attempt to quit smoking?
How much money have you spent on the Stop-Smoking products — or on losing bets with other would-be non-smokers?
In the past five years, the nation's 50 million adult smokers have been bombarded with powerful anti-smoking TV ads, exhortations from their doctors, health warnings on cigarette packages, etc. As one result, our national cigarette consumption fell last year by 4.8 billion cigarettes (to a still staggering total consumption of 523 billion). As another, says the American Cancer Society, fully 85 per cent of American adults are now convinced that smoking is bad for them.
And, as a third result, the Stop-Smoking business is booming — and included in this sphere are pills and gimmicks which have only a psychological impact.
Now, though, an effective and more economical approach seems to be in the offing: the Stop-Smoking clinic. The programs at the better clinics are drawn up by physicians and psychologists. Most conducted elsewhere in the U.S. — plus regular meetings or seminars, packaged programs for use by some patterned on the highly successful Alcoholics Anonymous, diet resorts, etc. The mous concept. You may — or may not — pay a small fee to attend the meetings.

Others Plan Clinics
The American Cancer Society itself is now exploring through its 3,000 local branches, the possibility of setting up a nationwide network of non-profit Stop-Smoking clinics. The Seventh Day Adventists already are conducting a medically oriented Stop-Smoking program in various parts of the U.S. Another group, Smoke Watchers Int'l., Inc., is aggressively profit-oriented in what it considers a $360 million market within the next five years.
Smoke Watchers has, in the past few months alone, set up a dozen centers in the New York area, and it plans many others.

"Kindly point out the new ground you've just taken, men! . . . We're here to aid and develop it economically!"

Vietnam Rescuers Helicopter Crewmen Give 'The Very Best'

By JAY SHARBUTT
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — It was just another day in the lives of the Alley Cats, a helicopter gunship platoon.
Their job was to help in the rescue of two injured South Vietnamese soldiers lying on a jagged, shell-pocked ridgeline just two miles south of the demilitarized zone. North Vietnamese were all around them.
The two, a company commander and his radio operator, were badly hurt when a U.S. Marine CH-46 helicopter crashed and burned on a combat assault mission.
In all, two Marine crewmen had been killed, and three other Marines and a total of 14 South Vietnamese soldiers had been injured. A radio report had said the dead and wounded had been lifted out by helicopter, but the report was wrong.
The two South Vietnamese somehow had been overlooked and an American spotter plane saw them on the ridge a few hours later.

Here was the way the rescue mission was set up: Four helicopters from the U.S. 101st Airborne Division and two Alley Cats from the Army's 282nd Aviation Company would sweep the North Vietnamese with their miniguns, rockets and grenades. A troop-carrying helicopter would go in and pick up the two Vietnamese soldiers.
"Lord, I got 17 days to go," said Spec. 5 Danney Beck, 19, an Alley Cat crew chief as he stood near his helicopter at Cam Lo. He was thinking about leave and a reunion with his family at El Paso, Tex.
The Alley Cat platoon carries calling cards suggesting its assistance is available "when you hurt enough to want the very best." The very best was called for now, and Beck knew it.
Heavy Armor
The pilots flying Beck's helicopter, WOs Mac Cochrell, 26, of Shreveport, La., and Sam Sneed, 23, of Cleveland, Okla., buckled on their heavy chest armor. Beck and the other door gunner, Pfc. Michael Murray, 21, of Longview, Wash., checked their armor and buckled themselves in.
As the helicopters neared the ridge, surrounded by ground haze and smoke rising from earlier air strikes, Cochrell told the door gunners: "Okay, let's keep our eyes open for other aircraft. It's going to get a bit crowded around here."
Two other gunships went in and then it was Cochrell's turn. He put the helicopter into a gentle dive. Sneed began working the miniguns. Beck and Murray showered the slopes with a steady spray of tracer bullets. Cochrell fired a salvo of rockets.
Then the rescue helicopter settled down on the ridgeline, and Cochrell said: "I don't envy those guys. They've got to have a lot of guts. They (the North Vietnamese) know they've got to come in and they're just waiting for them."
Then as the rescue helicopter's rotors slowed, Cochrell exclaimed: "Oh, goddammit, he's hit. He's taking hits. He's going to stay down."
Another attack on the hillside was called for and once more Cochrell put his helicopter into a slow dive with guns and rockets blazing.
Then with fuel running low, he and the other gunships were ordered to head for home. Other gunships would protect a second rescue helicopter.
On their way home, they heard the radio chatter and Cochrell said: "They got all those guys out okay," meaning the two South Vietnamese and the four crewmen of the rescue helicopter that had been shot down.
The Alley Cats had not been around at the finish. But as their calling cards said, they had helped out "when you hurt enough to want the very best."

Local Officials Put Clearly in Control Over Model Cities

7 Revisions Aimed at Streamlining Controversial Part of Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is revising the controversial model cities program with the hope of eliminating confusion over who is in charge at the local level the citizen or City Hall.

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney indicated at a news conference Monday that this was a principal aim of seven revisions to the program that Lyndon Johnson reportedly believed as he left office was the best instrument in the war on poverty.

Final authority for the city must be the local officials," Romney said.

"If the citizens do not think the officials are wise, they can get rid of them" presumably through the electoral process, Romney said.

ITT Target of Administration Trust-Busters

Conglomerate's Purchase of Vending Firm Is Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration trust-busters have made their second move in two weeks to short circuit the trend toward conglomerate mergers by filing suit against the giant International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

ITT was challenged Monday in Chicago's U.S. District Court on acquisition three days earlier of Canteen Corp., a national food and vending company with 1967 revenue of $322 million.

The Justice Department complaint charged the acquisition might trigger other mergers, a tendency government antitrust chief Richard W. McLaren says he means to stop.

ITT, the country's 12th largest business, thus joined Ling-Temco-Vought Inc., the 14th largest, as a defendant in separate government lawsuits to slow the rate of economic concentration.

Justice filed suit two weeks ago to stop LTV's purchase of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.

In addition to further entering economic power in a company, whose 1967 sales were $3.6 billion, the government suit charged, the ITT-Canteen merger would strengthen ITT's power to favor its customers with purchases, a practice called reciprocity.

In New York, a spokesman for ITT denied that allegation: "Under each of the companies' own policies of long standing, neither company has in fact engaged in reciprocity. We are confident, therefore, that the courts will rule that this suit is baseless in fact and law."

More than a year ago, on Jan. 1, 1968, ITT canceled plans to merge with American Broadcasting Co. because of long delays caused by Justice Department claims that ITT international interests might influence ABC news operations.

The new suit said ITT has 109,000 employees in its plants while Canteen is one of the top companies providing dining services in industrial plants, suggesting the two could increase the benefits if Canteen supplied vending and food services to ITT factories.

Canteen operates in 43 states. Its enterprises also include cigarette machines, concessions at sport facilities and management of restaurants.

ITT acquisitions in 1968 alone included Continental Baking Co., the nation's largest, Sheraton Corp., one of the two largest hotel chains, Levitt & Sons Inc., a major homebuilding firm; Avis Inc., No. 2 in car rentals; and Rayonier, a leading producer of chemical cellulose.

The revisions came after a White House meeting last week with the mayors of 10 of the nation's key cities. But one revision contained a pledge of greater efforts to involve the states in model cities.

Romney said this wouldn't mean more state control. He said the states would have no more control except over federal money that would go to them directly anyway.

The revisions did move to ward fulfilling two of President Nixon's campaign themes—the block grant approach and increased participation of the private sector.

Romney said those model cities plans that showed the most private participation would be given priority by the federal government.

He also said the revisions were the result of a committee on model cities of members of the Council for Urban Affairs. President Nixon's home front national security council.

Romney said the President

Pentagon Tries to Explain

Air of Confusion Exists In GIs' Code of Conduct

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen probing the North Korean capture of the USS Pueblo say the code of conduct for captured American servicemen is really a code of confusion.

"Rather than stricter or looser the code should be clearer," said Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Armed Services Subcommittee investigating the capture of the Pueblo and its crewmen. "I certainly think the confusion Monday made that manifest."

Pike referred to a parade of Pentagon officials who tried to explain the regulations governing the surrender of the Pueblo to the North Koreans and subsequent false confessions by crew members.

Committee members zeroed in on what they termed inconsistencies in the code's enforcement, vagueness on information the enemy can be supplied, and absence of guidelines for surrender of a ship.

Needs No Revision

Vice Adm. Charles K. Duncan, chief of naval personnel, described the code as a "professional and inspirational" guide that needs no revision at this time.

However, Rear Adm. Joseph E. McDevitt, the Navy's chief lawyer, said violators of the code technically can be prosecuted.

But it is not the policy of the Navy to punish violation of the code," Duncan injected.

And both men agreed that sections of the code are extended, showed there is no specific regions of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Violators of Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher to have the uniform code are subject to court martial.

"On one hand they say the code is inspirational and professional," committee member G. William Whitehurst, R-Va., complained in an interview.

"But on the other hand they say if you violate some sections you can be wrapped up (prosecuted) either under a general order or the uniform code," he said. "You can't have it all three ways."

Another puzzler came from testimony by Brig. Gen. Leo A. Benade, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, who commented on a section that says a prisoner of war is "bound to give only name, rank, service number and date of birth."

Minimum Disclosure

But, Benade said, the four categories are necessary and minimum disclosure. A prisoner can talk about such other matters as his health and imprisonment as long as he doesn't harm his fellow prisoners or imperil the national security.

"We would be deluding ourselves that you could stop and just give those four items," Benade said.

"The code, then, obviously doesn't say what it means about name, rank and serial number," Pike said in an interview. "The code technically can be prosecuted."

However, Rear Adm. Joseph E. McDevitt, the Navy's chief lawyer, said violators of the code technically can be prosecuted.

But it is not the policy of the Navy to punish violation of the code," Duncan injected.

War Leads to Boost In 'Dear John' Letters

DETROIT (AP) — A psychiatrist says the Vietnam war has produced more "Dear John" letters than any previous conflict involving U.S. servicemen.

Dr. Emanuel Tanay, who has made a study of what he calls the "Dear John Syndrome," blames this on a lack of popular support for the U.S. military position.

Tanay said he based his conclusion on conferences with legal staff officers of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam, many of whom served in World War II.

A "Dear John" letter is one in which a fiancée or wife tells a soldier she is finished with him, often because she has met another man.

Tanay said the separation imposed by war often leads to a feeling of anger and resentment on the part of the girl left behind.

"This same feeling," he said, "probably existed on the part of the wife in previous wars, but there were forces that held the anger back. Patriotism mitigated the situation."

Tanay said he first became interested in the "Dear John" situation during a visit to Vietnam earlier this year when he testified at the court

Kathleen Harris To Give Recital May 1 at Harper

A program of 19th and 20th century songs is planned by faculty soprano Kathleen Harris for 8 p.m. Thursday at Lawrence University's Harper Hall.

Her selections include "Hermit Songs" Op. 29 by Samuel Barber, four songs by Gabriel Faure, three by Schubert, two songs from Romanesque and Magelone by Brahms and five songs dating from 1916-1921, by Charles Ives.

Pianist Robert Below, also of the university faculty, will assist with the performance.

Miss Harris, an instructor in music, received a bachelor's degree from Lawrence Conservatory in 1962. In 1964 she received a master's degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

At Lawrence, she received the Performer's Prize and at Eastman was awarded a Performer's Certificate.

In 1964-65, she taught music at the College of Guam in the Marianas Islands. Before joining the Lawrence faculty in 1968, she spent 16 months studying in Wiesbaden, Germany, and traveling in central Europe and the Soviet Union.

Miss Harris has appeared on several faculty chamber recitals and was a soloist with the Lawrence Choral Society in a December performance of Handel's "Messiah."

'Sing Out' Youngsters Rehearse for Concert

65 Singers, Instrumentalists to Give Public Program Sunday at St. Mary School

BY JINGO

There's a special program coming up at 7:30 Sunday night, and it shouldn't be overlooked. It's not on TV, either, but front and center, onstage at St. Mary's school gymnasium in Appleton.

The occasion is a spring sing-out by the young high schoolers who have joined together in Sing Out, Fox Cities just for the fun of singing and giving programs whenever they can when they are asked.

Sunday's program all started when a few parents of the more than 85 young people suddenly discovered they never had sat down on an evening and heard their youngsters sing all the way through a bona fide program.

Snatches at rehearsals informal singing en route to or from a program in the Valley as they toiled the kids — this much they had heard but not a real program.

Rehearsing Ever Since

The next thought of course according to enthusiastic father mentor Cal V. Ryan was that maybe there were other Fox Valley residents who would like to get with this not-quite-a-year-old unit of the Up with People movement.

People movement can do with their songs about America and its many kinds of people. That's how the public program evolved and the youngsters have been rehearsing their favorite tunes from their 20 song repertoire ever since.

Their favorites are those songs with a meaningful theme and many of them have a strong beat — the kind that sets audiences clapping or tapping and gives the singer a chance to move around a bit. The message type favorites they enjoy singing. They tell our listeners how we feel about the people in America without preaching. I include them. Up with People's theme "What Color Is God's Skin?" I want to be strong. "Freedom Isn't Free" and "Keep Young at Heart."

This is a volunteer organization — the youngsters want to spend the time running it and rehearsing programs. It's been in existence since August of last year and is open to any teenager who likes and has the time to sing. Karl J. Erickson of Lawrence University music faculty is the group's director.

Membership has swelled down to about 65 from the original 100 teens who showed up last summer. This doesn't include the 13-piece band of guitar, drum, trumpet, cornet, flute, saxophone, bass, from home and piano. Although several of the singers also play guitars the musicians for the

To Your Good Health

Prostatic Hypertrophy Means Enlarged Gland

By George C. Thosteson, M.D. the gland may enlarge in all cases of hypertrophy. Usually the hypertrophy of the prostate is benign — that is, it is made up of fibrous and definite idea as to its real other tissue which are not malignant. But in some cases cancer is present. While this type of cancer can be controlled with gratifying success, it should be treated as soon as discovered. Discrete hard nodules are one suspicious sign.

Dr. Thosteson

real meaning of it in common language. AYA

In plain language it means enlargement of your prostate gland.

The gland, unusual in that it is a combination of both glandular and muscle tissue, is at the bottom of the urinary bladder. The urethra, or outlet from the bladder, passes through the center of the gland which is more or less doughnut-shaped.

For reasons not known the prostate may enlarge after the age of 50 or 60. It is reported that 10 per cent of men have this enlargement to some extent. About half of this number will have enough enlargement to cause symptoms.

Usual symptoms are increased frequency of urination, a sense of incomplete emptying of the bladder, frequent urination at night and diminished force of the urinary stream.

The doctor, of course has further diagnostic methods if the enlargement of the gland is on the side toward the rectum, this can be felt in the course of rectal examination.

If the enlargement is on the opposite side, the doctor may not be able to feel the enlargement, but when it is suspected from the patient's symptoms, examination is by a cystoscope. Or, as you may have supposed, a big job the complete details of which he keeps closely guarded.

Message is often used in cases of hypertrophy and may give temporary relief from symptoms. It is not a cure, however, and surgery (done in various forms) is the primary curative treatment. Depending on the case, varying amounts of the gland may be removed. Sometimes at the time of surgery cancer is found deep in the gland although not yet progressed far enough to have given any sign that could be detected otherwise.

Your physician will advise you when or whether surgery is necessary, so be guided by what he tells you. You'll find further information in my booklet "The Prostate" which you can obtain by sending 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our four-year-old son has a speech problem. He draws out the ending of words for a long time. Should we send him to a speech clinic or not? Our doctor advises that we do so as soon as possible and gave us the name of a speech clinic.

The problem is that other people say to wait and see if he will grow out of it. Even my husband agrees with them. What is your answer? — Mrs. M.J.

The sooner you have experts at the speech clinic evaluate the youngster's problem the better. Your doctor was interested enough to make a direct referral.

'Other people' will always give advice but that doesn't mean they are right or are qualified to judge.

My advice is to take this child to a speech therapist at once.

Note to Mrs. C.N. "Idiopathic cardiopathy" means that a heart condition exists but the exact cause of it cannot be determined.
